

TO FILM VATICAN MANUSCRIPTS

Rev. Paul C. Keiner, S.J. (left), president of St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo., and Rev. Marcus A. Howard, S.J., faculty member there, inspect a 800-pound shipment of microfilm equipment before it is placed aboard a Pan American World Airways plane in New York for Vatican City, where it will be used to microfilm the complete manuscript collection of the Vatican Library. The project will be undertaken by St. Louis University, which will make the microfilm record available to scholars in the United States. The Knights of Columbus has provided $150,000 to finance the 25-month project. (NC Photos)
