Nazareth College Opening Set; Health Courses Added

Nazareth College will open for Freshmen students on Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 9 o'clock. This session will be given to the orientation of the new class by the Dean, the Freshman Adviser, and other members of the faculty.

The general assembly of the four classes will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 15, at 9 o'clock when all classes of the College will meet. The official annual opening of the College will be marked by the Mass of the Holy Ghost on Sept. 16 at 9 o'clock at which all students and the faculty will be present. The Mass will be offered by the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Chancellor of the College.

The Nursing Department of the College is offering the somewhat modified course recommended by the Federal Security Agency for the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, in which the College is participating. Students will be received for this course until Sept. 17.

The Biology Department is offering two new courses in Parasitology in which the Government is vitally interested at this time, inasmuch as these courses discuss remedies for prevalent diseases in countries included in the war zones —African Sleeping Sickness and Malaria. Sister Francis Sedano, who has just received the Ph.D. degree from Catholic University will give these courses. She has studied with Dr. Theodor von Brand, an internationally known Parasitologist.

Passes for the bus service may be secured by Nazareth College students on Friday and Saturday of this week from 10 to 12 and from 2 to 4 at the Columbus Civic Centre.

Playboy's Bad Example To Youth Censured By New York Jurist

The many time divorced playboy, Tommy Manville, was given a severe castigation last week on the score of bad example to American youth by the celebrated New York jurist, Samuel S. Leibowitz.

Without mentioning Manville by name, the jurist said, "the Dillingers, the Capones and the Lepkes, in their palmiest days never did as much social harm" as he.

Addressing the new grand jury of Kings County, Judge Leibowitz declared:

"You have seen in the last few weeks what an important force for good can come out of the aroused anger of a long-suffering public. I refer to the revulsion of public feeling over the recent antics of a millionaire loafer and parasite, scion of a great industrial family, who has repeatedly used his inherited wealth to make a mockery of the sacred institution of marriage. Morals Seem Impaired

"There is on the statute books in this State a crime known as impairing the morals of a minor. People are sent to jail for it. Youth lives by example. Can you imagine the amount of irreparable damage to the morals of glamour-hungry boys and girls that the antics of this individual have engendered? Can you imagine the extent to which young girls can be demoralized by the activities of the gold-digging cuties who have used themselves as bait in this matrimonial carousel?"

The FORGOTTEN WOMAN

She is the forgotten woman of today. That is she is forgotten in some quarters among people who, for a variety of reasons have lost touch with normal living and the common people, the little-folk of homes and firesides. Not having a penchant for publicity, the sensational or directing the lives of others she is not so well known and in fact is ignored by the intelligentzia and the pseudo-liberals.

She is not a newspaper columnist or radio commentator, but she does wield influence in a quiet way; she does not wear a uniform yet she is easily recognized in humble and familiar garb; she is not highly paid or even paid at all, according to monetary standards, but considers herself paid in a priceless way; she may not get her picture in the paper, but she knows it is engraved on some hearts; she will not drive a Jeep somewhere overseas, but it is her letters to husbands, sons and brothers that bolster morale where the going is toughest.

Who is she? She is "Mom" or "Ma" or "Mother" or maybe "Dear or Darling." She is the wife and mother holding the line in the home. Because the value of what she produces cannot be computed as we compute the work of women in industry, some people underestimate it. But the fighting man and tired war-worker do not underestimate it. It is what they are fighting and working for, what they want "to come home to." — Northwest Progress.

Let Us Share Our Faith

Catholics on the home front have the obligation of keeping the spark of zeal alive in the hearts of the men in the armed forces, by supplying them with the weapons of conversion — pamphlets, prayer cards, magazines, papers.

Recently while visiting the Central Bureau, a salesman happened to see copies of "Guide Right" and "The Name of God." "I have a son in the service," he remarked. "May I have one of each to send him?" His request was granted, and on the next visit he said he had forwarded the booklets to his son. "You know," he said, "my boy wrote me that he read them several times, and told me they were really fine. Some of his fellow marines saw him reading them and asked to see them. Those two pamphlets have circulated all over the barracks. The non-Catholics as well as the Catholics were more than grateful to have the chance to read such material."

Let's share our Faith!—The Filot
