CHILD DELINQUENCY CALLED 'ALARMING'; CASES JUMP 50%

(The following is an imaginary meeting with a juvenile delinquent, age 11. The scene is a street corner. The time is 11 o'clock at night.)

"So you're a juvenile delinquent?"

"Huh? . . . who me? . . . What cha say I was?"

"A juvenile delinquent."

"Now not me. Dat's my sister Ella. She's fourteen and nuts about soldiers."

"Is Ella a juvenile delinquent?"

"Yeah, dat's what da cop called her when he brought her home da other night. Gee, da cops is always bringing Ella home. Funny guys dem cops. Dore always bringing Ella home and de're always taking me away."

"Do the police come after you?"

"Yeah, Saturday night . . . nobody was home and me and Butch was hungry. Butch, he was my friend, but no more. He's a squalid."

"Where was your father?"

"Down at Spike's place. You know, da beer-joint."

"What about your mother?"

"She was wid him, I guess. It was kinda late, too, and me and Butch . . ."

"You mean Butch and I?"

"Huh? . . . Yeah, me and Butch was hungry, see? . . . So we thought about de grapes over in Glatz's backyard. First we cased da joint and . . ."

"You what?"

"Cased da joint. You know, looked da place over to see dat nobody was watching. Things looked O. K. . . so me and Butch sneaked in and got some bunches of grapes. But den Mr. Glatz — he was waiting for us I guess — came chasing us."

"Did you give him the slip?"

"I mean did Mr. Glatz apprehend you?"

"Naw, he didn't get me but he got Butch and den Butch squealed on me. What a sissy dat guy is. Dey puts da heat on him and he spills everything."

"Well what happened when this Butch informed on you?"

"Oh, da same thing dat always happens when I get caught. Da cop come to da house . . . Only dis time pa gets mad and says he'll put me in jail if I get in trouble again . . . and da cop tells pa dat if I get in anymore trouble he'll put pop in jail. Dat's dem crazy cops for ya."

"By the way, do you ever go to church?"

"Church? . . . Naw, I don't go to church. My father and mother don't go either. We're always busy. When da cop came about de grapes, ma' got mad and said she was going to make me go to church and learn not to steal."

"Your name is Joe, isn't it?"

"Yeah, dat's right . . . but da kids call me Bogie. Dat's because Humphrey Bogart is my favorite movie actor. Did cha ever see Bogie?"

"Bogart? . . . Oh yes, he's the actor that used to fight with that other actor Mr. Greenstreet. I remember how he so cleverly stopped the Japs from destroying the Panama Canal. I heard that he also put on quite a show at Casablanca. This year the movies are showing how Mr. Bogart practically single-handed stopped General Rommel's Africa Korps at El-Alamein."

Army Head Warns Cornell U. Staff On 'Red' Teaching

Front page disclosures in Wednesday evening's New York WORLD-TELEGRAM reveal that the teaching staff of Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y., has been officially warned against indoctrinating Army cadets with Communistic propaganda.

In a startling exposé, Frederick Woltzman, World-Telegram Staff Writer, reports as follows:

"Complaints by army cadets at Cornell University that they were being indoctrinated with Communist party line propaganda by Vladimir D. Kazakevich, in charge of all Russian area teaching in the Army's Special Training Program there, brought an official warning from the director of the Cornell Army course."

The director, C. W. deKiewiet, found it necessary on Sept. 27 to issue a "statement of policy" to the Army school faculty on "the problem of presenting controversial material to the trainees." Among other things it declared, in underscored type, that:

"THE TEACHING STAFF HAS AS ITS FIRST RESPONSIBILITY THE PROTECTION OF THE LOYALTY OF ARMY MEN."

The warning, a copy of which was pasted on the bulletin board of McGraw Hall, headquarters of the army training program, concluded:

"Where instructors feel that it is necessary to express burning convictions about Russia or Bagdolio or China, it would only be proper to expose the personal and controversial nature of their views to their trainees and to provide the opportunity for free discussion."

Earlier this week the World-Tel-

Spiritual Benefits of 75 Years Stressed By Bishop At St. Mary's Jubilee

By Maryrose Barron

AUBURN—The Diamond Jubilee of the establishment of St. Mary's Parish was impressively observed on Sunday morning when His Excellency, the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, D.D., offered Solemn Pontificale High Mass of Thanksgiving and preached the Jubilee Sermon.

Officers of the Mass assisting Bishop Kearney were: Assistant Priest, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William F. Bergan, Chancellor of the Diocese of Rochester; Deacons of Honor to the Bishop, Very Rev. Dean John A. Conway, V.F., pastor of Holy Family Church, Auburn, and Rev. Alexander J. McCabe, of Rochester; Deacon of the Mass, Rev. B. L. Quirk of Seneca Falls; Sub-Deacon, Rev. John J. Ganev of Newark; Master of Ceremonies, Rev. Lawrence B. Casey, of Rochester; Second Master of Ceremonies, Rev. Dennis W. Hickley, of St. Mary's; Acolytes, Rev. John C. O'Donnell and Rev. Leo C. Mooney, both of Rochester; Thurifer, Rev. J. Joseph O'Connell of Rochester; Book-bearer, Rev. Robert H. Kennedy, of Geneva; Candle-bearer, Rev. Gregory Dugan of Auburn; Mitre-bearer, Rev. Edwin Agius, O.M.C., of Athol Springs, N.Y.; Crozier-bearer, Rev. E. Leo McMannis of St. Mary's.

Bishop in Sermon

Bishop Kearney in his Jubilee Sermon told the congregation that the history of a parish is centered around the Altar, the Pulpit and the Confessional. He stated that if a history could be written of the spiritual benefits which the parishioners have derived from the Altar, the Pulpit and the Confessional, it would be the most beautiful history in the world. He also said that no parish history could possibly give credit to all who had labored during these 75 years for the welfare of St. Mary's Parish.

Missions Threatened By War Toll, Bishop Avers In Annual Plea

Mission Sunday will be observed in all the parishes of the Diocese of Rochester on Sunday, Oct. 24. The missions and their needs will be the theme of every sermon and the prayers and aims of the tally will be solicited. In many parishes the Mass for the Propagation of the Faith will be solemnly celebrated.

The collection to be taken in all the churches on Mission Sunday will be forwarded to the Diocesan Office of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

(Editorial on Page 14)

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith is a pontifical and international mission-end society established to assist missionaries the world over. As a Papal Fund, it reaches out to all mission lands with such assistance as it can distribute. Of the total funds collected on Mission Sunday, 50% will go to the foreign missions, 40% to the home missions of the United States and 10% to the countries of the Near East.

"As a result of the ravages of war, the work of years of effort is likely to be destroyed," His Excellency, the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester, declared in the Mission Sunday letter read in the church last Sunday.

"The generosity of the Church in America," the Bishop asserted, "is the last hope of many of that noble group of self-sacrificing men and women who have given their lives to the cause of the cause of Jesus Christ."

Climaxing the diocesan-wide celebration will be a Mission Mass offered at 11 o'clock at the Pro-Cathedral of the Sacred Heart. His Excellency, Bishop Kearney, will preside. Chaplains of the Catholic Rochester Units of the Catholic Rochester Mission Crusade will act as officers of the Mass.

They include the Rev. Dr. Edward Link, Celebrant; the Rev. Joseph O'Connell, Deacon; the Rev. Thomas Brown, Sub-deacon; the Rev. Dr. Edward Byrne.

Two Industrial Leaders Write For Jubilee Issue

The post-war views of American industry will be presented by two of the nation's outstanding industrial leaders in the forthcoming Jubilee Magazine of the CATHOLIC COURIER.

Ryan, a member of the Civil Aero Board; the Rt. Rev. Major-Pulkin J. Shan, Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York; Archibishop Robert E. Lucey of San Antonio, the Rev. Wilfrid Parsons, S.J., noted Jesuit writer; Thomas J. Woodlock, editor of the "Wall Street Journal"; the Rt. Rev. George Johnson, director of the Department of Education of National Catholic Welfare Conference; the Rev. Joseph J. Thoburn, professor of sociology at Georgetown University; Brigadier General William R. Arnold, chaplain, U.S. Army; Mr. Culkin Banning, noted writer; the Rev. John M. M. executive editor.

Mr. Johnston sees in the post-war era a "feast of our faith" which is the title of the article he has submitted. The Jubilee Magazine dealing largely with post-war problems will be issued to mark the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Rochester Diocese and the golden jubilee of St. Bernard's Seminary.

Other contributors to the Jubilee Magazine previously announced include Juan T. Wilson, president of Pan-American Airways; Geraldine O'Reilly, author of "Our Children."
