Bishop Haas Pleads To AFL For Minorities

BOSTON. (NC)—An appeal for full union status for Colored persons and for members of other minority groups was made by the Most Rev. Francis J. Haas, Bishop-elect of Grand Rapids and retiring chairman of the President's Fair Employment Practices Committee, in an address here at the sixty-third convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Bishop-elect Haas recalled the impetus given to organization of labor through the Encyclical of Pope Leo XIII in 1891 and traced the major difficulties which the A. F. of L. has surmounted in its [illegible] history. He reminded that despite the manpower shortage in industry today "there exists an untapped pool of willing and skilled hands among the minority groups," who should be employed in preference to mothers of young children, school boys and old men.

Holy Family Grammar School

Guards Home Front With Safety Patrol

AUBURN.—The beginning of the school year has ushered in the Safety Patrol at Holy Family. The necessity for it is most evident, since "war effects" to help the "fighting front," in the retiching of cars and tires, has resulted in worn smooth tires and inefficient brakes. Both of these are most dangerous of our "home front."

The Safety Patrol which is a helpful means of relieving this dangerous situation has been well organized in Holy Family under the sponsorship and help of the AAA.

Sergeant Arnold of the Auburn Police Force visited our school and gave an instructive and interesting talk to the Safety Patrol Squad, after which he pledged the boys to their new duties and responsibilities. He also visited the grammar grades and explained the purpose of the "Safety Patrol" and the cooperation which is expected of every pupil. Members of the Safety Patrol are Joseph Fitzpatrick, Robert Wilson, John Walker, Richard Bower, Russell Wise, John Lawler, Robert Gallo, William Tuttle, Edward Quinn, James McLean, Edward King, John La Grua, Edward Hartenbrook.

New Teaching Field

I wonder how long it will be before we hear the first rumblings of the demand that adult education shall be made compulsory. The argument is very clear: that you cannot be a good citizen and a voter and a judge of difficult questions unless you are instructed and studious, with brightly furnished and thoughtful dome. When the teachers have used up what fragments of childhood and adolescence remain to be appropriated, they will find themselves, in their imperialistic urge and quest for raw materials, bound to look to the unexplored continent of the middle years of life.—D. W., in The Tablet of London.
