Basic Security Plan Advocated By CIO Head In Culture Talk

To establish a basis for security for the workingman, especially following the war, and to guard against evils of unemployment, such as existed in the depression, Philip Murray, CIO president, advocated a guaranteed minimum annual wage in basic American industries, Sunday night, speaking in Rochester.

The CIO president was heard in the Christian Culture Lecture series at Aquinas Auditorium. He was presented by Dr. Aaron J. Abell, of [illegible], who handled the questions from the floor and written questions following the lecture.

Head of the United Steel Workers of America, Mr. Murray declared the plan would be made part of labor's negotiations with the U. S. Steel Corporation and subsidiaries for new contracts opening in Pittsburgh on Monday.

Outlines Formula

The formula outlined by the speaker is based on the hourly rate of pay multiplied by 40 and then by 52. The figure 40 is the eight-hour, five-day week schedule, and 52, the weeks in the year. He said the steel workers' new wage demands call for an increase of 17 cents an hour, amounting to $1,000 annual wage.

That he expected opposition to the plan adopted by the Steel Workers' national policy committee, Murray recalled:

"I broached it to 4,000 delegates to the National Association of Manufacturers' convention in New York last week and it was met with stony silence."

"The idea would amount to nothing, if it was aimed to help only one particular section of labor," he said in his lecture. "It is aimed at helping the nation's economic well-being by taking precedence over strikes, poverty, mass unemployment, selling apples on street corners.

"Who will deny the ingenuity and ability of management to put the plan in operation as a post-war solution for security in our national economic life?"

He asserted that Congress in its tax law structure was protecting business through guaranteeing refunds up to 60 per cent from excess profits taxes following the war when the net income of corporations falls below the 1941 level.

"If it is good for employers, it should be good for human beings," Murray declared.

Asked in the question period if the CIO and A. F. of L. would ever affiliate, he said as far as he was concerned he was agreeable if it ever could be worked out, but pointed out that in the Steel Union the A. F. of L. has 22 separate unions with separate set-ups, secretaries, etc., which would make the affiliation difficult.

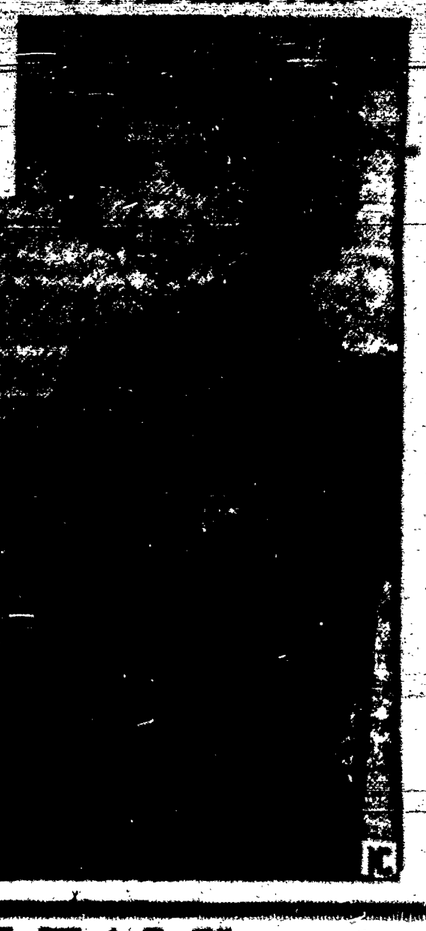
SPIRITUAL TIE WITH HOME

Santa Campagna, SK3C, a SPAR who hails from Everett, Mass., is shown in front of one of the four NCCS-operated USO clubs in Washington, D. C., as she mails home her Christmas spiritual bouquet. Inset: A reproduction of the spiritual bouquet card, more than a million of which have been distributed through the clubs which the National Catholic Community Service operates. The card says: "May the offering of my Christmas Mass bring God's blessing to you at home. And may our union with the Christ Child in Holy Communion bring us together in His Blessed Peace."



SODALTALK

A group composed of members of the various Sodalities, on Sunday, Dec. 26, will sing Christmas carols at the County Home between 3 and 4 in the afternoon. If your Sodality is interested, please call Dorothy Katzenberger, Apostolic Committee Chairman, at Monroe 6703-J.

Church's Labor Role Told To 900 Workers

What the Catholic Church is doing in New York State to advance the interests of the workingman was outlined by the Rev. William J. Kelley, O.M.I. Chairman of the State Labor Relations Board in addressing 900 members of the Rochester Independent Workers, Local 1, of Stromberg-Carlson Co., Sunday evening.

The address was given at a dinner in Hotel Seneca.

"The problem of labor is of deep concern to the leaders of all organized religious," the speaker stated.

"One reason for their concern is the fact that there is an inter-relationship between ethics and economics—workers are human beings and human beings are motivated by moral, ethical principles and the churches are the proponents and the custodians of ethics.

"The Catholic Church in the State of New York has and is doing much by way of education to bring about a better understanding on the part of the public as to the labor movement itself, its principles and objectives, and particularly in its program of education to bring about a better understanding between employer and employee."

He cited the success of Catholic labor colleges in the State, including those in Buffalo, Rochester, New York and Brooklyn.

"Analyzing the efforts of the Catholic Church throughout the State of New York, there is one and only one inescapable conclusion that the Catholic Church by way of education is doing all within its power to achieve a better understanding of the labor movement.

Both Left Example

Arthur Hinsley (the late Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster) and Abraham Lincoln were men of peace called to power in a time of war, and both left behind them an example by which other men might be reconciled to each other. —Robert Speaight in The Commonweal.

Designed For LIVING

Naturally the Civic Centre can serve its clientele best because it was designed for living. An institution cannot hope to be a proverbial "jack-of-all-trades" and still expect to render 100% efficient service to its residents. Located 'round the corner from everywhere, with a price range within reason, the Columbus Civic Centre lives up to its design . . . for living.
