College Grants Charter But Reveals Club's Red Tie-Up

NEW YORK.—Although the City College of New York Faculty Committee announced it had no alternative under the institution's by-laws but to grant a charter to the school's Tom Paine Club, affiliated with the American Youth for Democracy, it took the unprecedented action of issuing a statement calling attention to the Communist sponsorship of the organization. The granting of the charter climaxed a three-month controversy over the new club.

In the statement, the committee said:

"The AYD was sponsored and initiated by the Young Communist League, which was then disbanded in favor of the new organization; that former members of the Young Communist League have been the active organizers of the local AYD unit at the college; that the strategic position of national executive secretary of AYD is held by the former New York State chairman of the Young Communist League, and that there is printed evidence in the September, 1943, issue of The Communist that members of the Communist party harbor the hope that thousands of youth who will join the new organization will also later join the Communist party, and that many will become leaders of the Communist party."

"The foregoing factual statement is included in the committee's action as a supplement to the statement of purposes submitted by the Tom Paine Club of the AYD with its application for recognition."

The committee noted that in its original application the Tom Paine Club "did not give the whole picture" and the committee was doing so for the benefit of prospective members.

Dean Frank Ray Mosher, of the School of Education, entered the controversy for the first time by expressing the opinion that the AYD was not a "bona fide" body, but a "propaganda organization, serving no useful purpose."

YOUR BLOOD MAY BE IN THIS GAME: Thanks to Red Cross blood plasma, Second Lieutenant Raymond J. Herbert, 26 (left), of Brooklyn, N. Y., and First Lieutenant Charles F. Buehler, 30, of East Orange, N. J., lived to play this chess game at Halloran General Hospital, Kimt. Herbert received a plasma transfusion while lying on the beach in full view of enemy snipers after his tank was knocked out of action. Lieut. Buehler, an Army doctor, prescribed a transfusion for himself to avert shock after a sniper's bullet wrecked the vehicle in which he was carrying supplies from Casablanca to a hospital.

Army Chaplain Visits Solomon Lepers On First Visit In 2 Years

NEW YORK.—The Rev. William P. Dooley, O.P., formerly in the Diocese of Seattle, on his first leave after two years of service as an Army chaplain, tells in a letter to the Military Ordinariate of a visit to five missions in the Solomons Islands, including a leper colony.

"There are over 600 lepers, including two priests who are afflicted with the disease," writes Father Dooley. "I had a long visit with one of these men, who has been here for some years; a man of great promise in the mission field. He has been able to render a spiritual service to these afflicted people, which an outsider could not achieve."

Father Dooley says he was shown through the colony by two nuns and one of the patients. He describes the island as "a bit of paradise" to which has been added "the labor of love." Cleanliness is evident everywhere, he states.

The Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, the Dominican chaplain writes, "before he became Bishop, I believe, built with American money a beautiful chapel for the patients. The altar is bronze and from France. The whole edifice is white, lightsome, cheerful and spotlessly clean. The Sisters have their own chapel, which is very lovely and prayerful. I said to one of the American Sisters, 'When will you get home again?' She answered, 'Father, this is my home until, please God, I reach my home in Heaven.' This was said with an humble cheerfulness which was edifying indeed."

The patient who guided Father Dooley through the colony is described as "a well educated, widely traveled and of considerable means in his own right." The letter adds: "He constructed their water system, power-driven, filters and all. He has also been responsible for the lighting plant, which is surprisingly complete. Just to keep himself and some of the others occupied, he has built two speed boats, following construction plans received from America. They look just like some of our more expensive craft."

Mixed Marriages

Matrimony is one of the seven Sacraments instituted by Christ—a holy thing, a sacred contract, ended only by death. Being a Sacrament, the conditions under which it is administered to Catholics are laid down by the Catholic Church. All Catholics recognize the inalienable right of the Church to regulate the conditions of all the Sacraments, Matrimony included. No Catholic would go to a Justice of the Peace to go to Confession; so also no Catholic would go anywhere but to a Catholic priest to be married.

Catholics believe Catholics should marry Catholics, Protestants marry Protestants, and Jews marry Jews. The Catholic Church looks with disfavor upon the marriage of persons of different religions. There may at times be happiness in such marriages, but, alas, very many of them are unhappy, and the birth of the children is imperiled.
