SHEAHAN RETIRES: After half a century in the employ of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, Thomas Sheahan of 568 Waverly St., has resigned.

Born in Waverly, he began working at the Lehigh Valley shops when 17 and was promoted to locomotive engineer. He married Miss Anna Tozer at St. James Church, July 9, 1903.

They have three daughters, Pvt. Anna Sheahan, WAC, Fort Ord, Calif.; Mrs. James Corvan, Flushing, L. I.; and Mrs. Justus Edmon, Waverly.

Mr. Sheahan has an excellent record of many honorary awards received during his fifty years with the railroad. He holds a life membership in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"NEW MAN": PFC John McAnulla, 23, of Corning, Wis., was injured while carrying a message to an Australian town. Four Red Cross planes transpired pulled him through. Each one "poked me up and made me feel like a new man," he says.

'Some Important Person'

(Following is a tribute by Mary F. Kilkenny, 8th grade pupil of St. Mary's School, to the late Rev. Jeremiah J. Moriarty.)

Father Moriarty, pastor of St. Mary's Church, died recently. The whole diocese is in sorrow. He was eighty-two years old. He had been a priest for forty-eight years.

We miss him very much because he used to come into our room every day and teach us arithmetic. He used to take a walk every morning and I followed him on my way to school.

No one will ever take his place in my heart nor in many other hearts. He was the kindest person I ever knew and I feel sure that God has rewarded him for his many acts of kindness to the poor.

May God bless this holy priest and every priest in the world.

PVT. STELLA WRITES HOME

By MARY C. BROSNAN OWEGO.—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stella, of George St., have received an interesting letter from their younger son, Pvt. Robert Stella, who is stationed somewhere in Italy.

Pvt. Stella relates his experience when he received his first baptism of fire and how it effected him. He describes the wonderful sight of seeing the Allied planes, bombers and pursuit planes, in great number, flying overhead and of seeing them in combat with the enemy, many of the latter's planes being shot down. He writes of seeing the Germans and Allies' artillery firing at each other and of the terrific noise the bombardment made for miles around.

He is with two other soldiers in charge of a radio station and Pvt. Stella is the cook for the trio. The food is good and very nourishing and the fellows seem quite contented. When the letter was written the soldiers were just beginning to receive their Christmas packages and mail.

Similar to the remarks made by other soldiers, Pvt. Stella says that what the soldiers want most is letters from home, for only those who are in real action can ever realize what it means to have mail arriving often.

SERGEANT DIES

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Panetti, who on New Year's Day received a telegram from the War Department stating that their son, Sgt. Mario Panetti, had been killed in an accident in England on Christmas Day, last week received a letter confirming this fact from the War Department. The letter stated that further information received from England stated that Sgt. Panetti had met his death in an airplane crash near Okehampton, Devon County, England, but further details of the accident were lacking. Sgt. Panetti was the first graduate of St. Patrick's Parochial School to make the supreme sacrifice. Besides his parents he is survived by one sister, Caroline Panetti, and one brother, Patrick Panetti.
