CATHOLIC ARMY OFFICER PERFECTS X-RAY MARVEL

MEMPHIS. — Hailed as the Army's latest medical marvel, an X-ray unit, which locates both in position and depth shell fragments in the body of a wounded soldier and marks with iodine a path to guide the surgeon in making an accurate incision, has been demonstrated successfully here at the Army School of Roentgenology.

The "electronic bloodhound" was invented by Col. A. A. de Lorimier, commandant of the school and one of the Army's foremost X-ray experts. Col. de Lorimier is a parishioner of St. Anne's Church.

The X-ray marvel is designed for front-line field and emergency hospitals and is so compact that it can be packed into several chests about the size of an ordinary trunk. The Army has let a contract for 2,000 sets of the unit.

SACRIFICE OF THE MASS

"The Mass, according to the saintly Pope Pius X, is the primary and indispensable source of the Christian spirit." — Father Stedman.

PRIEST STRESSES MORAL DUTIES OF EMPLOYERS

BURLINGTON. — The religious and moral responsibilities of the employer were stressed by the Rev. Edward Colleton, of the Sacred Heart of Mary Church, Rutland, in the third of a series of five addresses over Station WCAX here.

"Man is not to enslave workmen by undue exertion of the economic power within his control," said Father Colleton. "Human labor is not a chattel by which to make money; it is not a mere muscle or physical power; it is power. It is the exercise of the God-given faculties of a real human person."
