Urges Registration For War Work Training

Four-F's, men 18 to 45 and others who face probable alternatives of taking essential jobs or being inducted into Army labor battalions were urged by Verne A. Bird, Assistant Superintendent of Schools and Director of Vocational Training for War Production to begin registration for immediate job training at anyone of seven high schools operating war training for war production courses in Rochester.

Bird pointed out these men who will be affected by the proposed legislation in Washington can be assigned to paid training classes if they can qualify and will be trained as skilled workers to fill existing war plant vacancies. Some men who are now employed in non-essential industries can register for evening school training and continue working until they have been graduated from training classes as skilled and assigned to essential work while others could register and be immediately assigned to plants operating "in-plant" training in conjunction with the Board of Education Vocational War Training Program, he said.

Registrations will be accepted beginning Tuesday morning in Room 108 at the Board of Education or at anyone of the high schools operating under the program of Vocational Training for War Production.

A Rosary and A Revolver . . .

He was a Navy man who had fought at Guadalcanal and the Coral Sea. He looked up at the crucifix in the USO club director's office and began talking, to no one in particular. "You don't know what it is out there. Confession sometimes takes quite a while, because you have to stop to pick off snipers, but the padre understands. The padre keeps bring as you stand at Mass. You have a revolver. It was bad and a . . ."

Pray for their Safety and VICTORY for Us ALL

Each of us has one special prayer this Easter season—a prayer for the safety of the loved one who is fighting for our flag. Each of us, too, has a prayer no less heartfelt that God will soon grant Victory to our Cause.

This store, many of whose staff are serving in the armed forces, adds its hope that you will attend the church of your choice this Eastertide to ask Divine Blessing on our boys and the great cause for which they are battling.
