Chaplain Whalen Edits Paper For Camp Elliott Marines

AUBURN—The Rev. Leslie G. Whalen, former assistant at St. Mary's Church here, is now editing a weekly bulletin for the Catholic Marines at Camp Elliott, California, where he has served as a Navy chaplain since last January. At his California post Father Whalen is assistant to Navy Chaplain William F. Maguire of Pearl Harbor fame.

Camp Elliott had no weekly publication for the Catholic men at the base when Father Whalen was appointed. He immediately began to issue one each Sunday. The publication contains a program of Catholic services held at the Marine base and timely articles concerning the Catholic faith. Father Whalen reports that the Lenten Services and the Holy Week services were well attended and that a Novena to Our Lady is held weekly at the Marine base.

On Easter Sunday morning Father Whalen celebrated Mass in a field near Camp Elliott.

He began the celebration of his Easter Sunday Mass in California at approximately the same time that the Solemn High Masses were being celebrated in Auburn churches here. It was just four years ago that Father Whalen served as commentator of the Solemn High Mass at St. Mary's when it was broadcast over Radio Station WMBO. This marked the first time that the ceremonies of the Mass were explained in a radio broadcast in the city of Auburn.
