The Papers Didn't Say

Out of the war here has been able to give refuge to British women and children, has been able to supply food to her neighbor, and as Rev. Fr. Fraher said recently, out of the money she has spent on gunpowder has given great aid to starving people. The American newspapers did not report, let alone feature, a happening that shows that some humanity is still left in Europe. Paul Eiraman, last month voted a million dollars out of his own small revenue for relief of the famine in India and in such parts of Europe as can be reached. — Padraic Colum, in Saturday Review of Literature.

Give me the man who, instead of always telling you what should be done, goes ahead and does it. — Robert Frost.

Mothers' Training in Home Lauded by Banquet Speaker

AUBURN—The Sixth annual banquet of the Mothers' Club of St. Alphonsus was held on Tuesday evening at Deauville. Rev. E. Leo McMannus, assistant pastor of St. Mary's, was the guest speaker.

Father McMannus stressed the fact that the mother's training in the home passes on for generations and at this time it is the most important work of the home front. "Our children grow up the way we train them," he said, "and the relationship in the homes does much towards molding their characters into happy adults who can depend upon themselves to form successful lives."

Mrs. Evelyn Matthews was toastmistress. Mrs. Gertrude Ehrenman, President and Mrs. Anne Ferris and Mrs. Emily Inelch, past presidents, also attended the banquet. Mrs. Anna Jahn, general chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Mary Lawler, Mrs. Margaret Wilson, Mrs. Marie Richards, Kay Quigley, Helen Srozyk, Irene Burns, Margaret Laper, Florence Holzhauser, Helen Crowley, and Evelyn Matthews.

Rev. Thomas Reddington spoke briefly to the mothers. Rev. William Riefer, assistant pastor, was also present. Miss Anne Simmonds sang, "Prayer for a Home," and "Song Through the Years." She was accompanied by Gerald T. Conroy, Donald and Barbara Lawler entertained with song and dance numbers and Donald Lawler with accordion selections. A musical comedy number was also given by Joseph Enge and Donald Lawler. Group singing was enjoyed with Gerald Conroy as accompanist.
