

LADIES OF CHARITY--

Jottings Here and There

By MARY E. FITZGERALD

The Under His Care League reports a favor received. The dear son of one of our Rochester members is reported a prisoner of the Germans. For most of the 96 days after he was reported missing, his mother said her prayer for every casualty which was listed in the daily press.

Thanks to Mrs. Kenneth John Gardner of 308 Brooklawn Avenue, we have added 29 Rochesterians to our membership of the League.

You may join you know, individually or in the group! It's under His Care—not ours—it's His prerogative to present to you. The address is Ladies of Charity, Federation Building, Elmira, N. Y.

There's a lovely small statue of St. Rose of Lima in the chapel on Rosary Hill. Her committee will have the privilege of giving some of the material necessities to the Convent for the week beginning Oct. 16th.

Our Bishop's Committee of Our Lady of Good Counsel was to meet on Tuesday evening in the Federation Building. After several hours of work on lap robes, refreshments were to be served.

The members were elated over the results of the Food Sale held at Sheehan's on Saturday, Oct. 7. The financial returns were gratifying.

The Red Cross started their weekly schedule last week. Needles flew and machines hummed—the result was a surprisingly high pile of hot water bottle covers.

The Friendly Visiting Committee met Tuesday at seven o'clock. You might want to refer a lonely sick or aged neighbor to these Vincennes callers. Strange how welcome they are when friends have forgotten the invalid.

Mrs. Howard Campbell and Miss Eleanor Keating now head the Recreation Committee, which sponsors the CYO Activities. Their meeting was scheduled for Tuesday at 7:30.

Congratulations! The Ladies of Charity can well be proud of their representation on the Coast Campaign. Mrs. Glen Weigand and a corps of able workers will do their share toward pulling the drive over the top.

How about daily Mass and Holy Communion! It's especially for you and you, each and every Lady of Charity.

Church Never Taught False Doctrines

If anyone can show us one single false doctrine taught by the Catholic Church during the past 1900 years, we will readily admit that the Catholic Church is not the Church of Christ. In all her official pronouncements, text books, and documents, she has been unswervingly, and at all hazards, on the side of truth, justice, faith and morality.

Blessed are those who save. The little man who is a hero now will be jobless if he's broke after the war.—Los Angeles Express.

Laymen from Seneca Falls Make Retreat

SENeca FALLS — Rev. E. L. Quirk accompanied a group of men from St. Patrick's Parish, who attended the retreat at Our Lady of the Lake Retreat House, Geneva, last week-end. The services are conducted under the auspices of the Redemptorist Fathers. Rev. Joseph Turner, C.S.R., was in charge. Members of St. Patrick's who attended were Patrick M. Coffey, Frank P. Farron, Peter M. Doran, Joseph J. Doyle, Andrew L. Sipos, Francis J. Sushan, William J. Macdon and Edward W. Leonard. The retreat began Friday evening and closed Sunday afternoon.

Treasury of Church

The Treasury of the Church is the superabundant merit of Christ and the Saints constituting in the hands of the Church a store of which the faithful may make use; this is drawn from by the Church when she grants indulgences.

How Release May Be Sought

The emphasis at present is largely on planning the economic future. It is a broad and better policy which promises the people plenty, while the decade 1939 to 1942—not to mention the previous ten years—has not proven their leaders' ability to bring them out of the economic labyrinth. That sinister structure the makers of the 19th century shut man up in for the sake of the new American Mammon. Urged on by the men and existing economic conditions to act, release from the mass of mounting difficulties will be sought by increasing the powers and functions of the State and expending a more or less pronounced form of collectivistic production. And what is this if not full-fledged State capitalism?—Social Justice Review.

A Bible should be provided for legislators who enact laws, divorce laws and for judges who render them out in a swift and sure hand.—Leigh News and Observer.
