

Judge Dubs Jehovah's Witnesses Subversive

Baltimore, Md. (UPI)—Asserting that young men belonging to the Jehovah's Witnesses sect are "taking up a religious claim to ministers" and "turning their actions subversive," Federal District Court Judge William C. Coleman requested Bernard J. Flynn, U. S. Attorney for Maryland, to make an investigation to determine whether the sect's leaders were encouraging the young men to refuse to comply with selective service requirements.

"There are apparently a number of young men belonging to this so-called religious sect who are masquerading using a false argument in the name of religion—false as far as real religion is concerned," Judge Coleman declared.

'Top Meadow' for Sale

LONDON (UPI)—G. K. Chesterton's home for many years, Top Meadow, Buntingford, Buckinghamshire, is to be sold, but it is hoped that it will remain in Catholic hands. It was there that G. K. wrote a large proportion of the works that made him famous throughout the world. There he learned the Penny Catholicism in preparation for his reception into the Church and there, too, he died.
