Mothers Air Shortcomings
Of Their Teen-Age Sons

By Sheila John Daly

HE may be one of the smoothest characters around school, known for his sharp slacks and sweaters or for his solid line of chatter, but his family knows him when those slacks and sweaters are inartistically draped over his bedroom furniture or when that line of chatter is turned to a heated argument with his older sister or to a lengthy harangue with his father on why he should have the car for his Friday night date.

Sheila John Daly

So, to set these same fellows straight, here are a few thoughts from those who know — the mothers and fathers of high school fellows — on how to get an A in conduct and move up to the head of the house. So look to these complaints and then look to your laurels — you may be rusting on them!

"It seems that no matter how much I tell my son about the value of money, how often I arrange a budget with him, or how liberal I am with his allowance, he still doesn't seem to appreciate the importance of money. He's always coming to me near the end of the week for more spending money, and if I don't supply it he borrows from his friends. I do wish he'd begin to spend less and to appreciate its value."

"My son gets so engrossed in his record collection that it's hard on the furniture. He goes into his bedroom, stacks records on his machine, props his feet on the foot of his bed, and then goes into ecstasies. It's not that I'm not glad that he enjoys good music, but even the hardest of woods can't hold up under his normal boots for long."

"Perhaps I'm wrong in objecting, but I think my son goes out with too many girls. I realize he's too young to get serious about one girl in particular, but he hasn't had two dates with the same girl in the last three months. I want him to have fun with more than one girl, but I don't want him to get too frivolous."

"I may be that I'm just old fashioned, but I still like to have my boy come home before the milkman and the morning dew. I know that sometimes youngsters are having so much fun they forget all about the time, but I'm going to have to tie an alarm clock around his neck to remind him if he doesn't start coming home earlier."

"Sometimes I wonder when my son studies. It seems to me he's having fun on a 25-hour-a-day schedule now."

There they are — just a few of the small (and a couple of large) things that parents have to say about their young sons. Check yourself against the list, add up the score, and see how you rate. But don't get discouraged — even Van Johnson doesn't hang up his shirt and tie every night!

Holy Childhood Association Rev. John S. Randall Director

Dear Boys and Girls, I know you are all anxious to hear about the returns from the Chapel Drive held last month. At this writing I am not able to tell you much since very few returns have come into the office. However, I hope to give you the results next week. Next week I will list the amount given by each school.

Now I will tell you about the contributions to the Holy Childhood received during the month of May.

Holy Rosary — The pupils of the Eighth Grade-West ransomed a Chinese girl. The name chosen was Mary Monica.

Sacred Heart Pro-Cathedral — The pupils of the First Grade-Room 5 ransomed another baby. Mary Elizabeth is the name chosen for their baby. A little Chinese boy to be named Patrick was adopted by boys and girls of the Fifth Grade-Room 18.

St. Andrew's — The Seventh Grade-North ransomed three babies—all Filipinos to be named Eugenio Pacelli, Mary Theophane, and John Joseph LeVeque. The boys and girls of the Seventh Grade-South have two babies to their credit for the month of May — one is a Filipino to be named Anthony Harvey and the other is a Filipino named Ernie Pyle. John Woerner is the name of the Chinese boy adopted by the pupils of the Eighth Grade-North. The Third Grade-South did their part by saving their pennies to adopt a boy from India. He will be named Joseph Leonard. Mary Benedict from Alaska will have the boys and girls of the Sixth Grade-South to thank for her privilege of becoming a Catholic. The pupils of the Second Grade-West were not going to be left behind. They saved $5 to adopt a baby from Alaska. They chose the name Diane Schweichard for this little girl.

St. Agnes, Avon — The little First and Second Graders have surely done a fine job this year. They have saved enough pennies to adopt another baby. They have asked for another Filipino baby. The name chosen this time is Susan Marie. The boys and girls of the Fifth and Sixth Grades gave $5 to the missions to be used where most needed.
