PICTURE PARADE

"FALLEN ANGEL" (Ob.) (In part) 20th Century-Fox. The two-star indication, "good," relates to cast and technique and not to story or characters which, with three exceptions, are disgustingly unprincipled. Cynical jack-of-all-trades (Dana Andrews) visiting small town as advance press agent for a phoney spiritualist (John Carradine) meets waitress (Linda Darnell) in cheap cafe. Other plans having failed he offers her marriage. She accepts subject to a change in his financial position. She wants marriage with money. This man then wooes and marries a decent girl (Alice Faye) member of a socially prominent and highly respected family, bent on getting her fortune to attract the waitress. When the waitress is murdered he is suspected but, with chameleon-like change of character, he turns detective, clears himself, apprehends the killer and (so conveniently) picks up married life with the bride he has so grievously wronged. Excellent performances by the principals fail to retrieve the story adapted from Marty Holland's novel.

Although Officials of the Code Administration disagree, this critic finds violations of the Code in parts of this picture.
