

Judge 29 Years

Hon. Joseph M. Feely

Surrogate Feely Retires on Dec. 31

Completion of 29 years as a judge will be marked by Surrogate Joseph M. Feely, exemplary Catholic layman, on Dec. 31 when he will retire having reached the retirement age of 70.

A member of Holy Rosary parish, Surrogate Feely has completed three and a third successive terms for an even 20 years as Monroe County surrogate. He had previously served nine years as a City Court Judge.

During his term of office, he admitted more than 16,000 wills to probate and over 13,000 letters of administration were granted in other estates. As surrogate he also wrote a 1,000 decisions and issued 86,500 miscellaneous orders.

Born in Rochester Dec. 10, 1875, Surrogate Feely attended local schools and studied law in the office of his father, the late Dennis C. Feely. After a short course at Cornell university, the future jurist was admitted to the bar in 1899. He practiced law with his father for the next 17 years.

The judge, a bachelor, lives at 295 Maplewood Ave. with his sister, Miss Clara E. Feely, and a nephew, Joseph F. Conway, an instructor at the University of Rochester. A member of the Rochester Bar Association he was honored by 400 lawyers and guests in Powers Hotel when a skit by George J. Nier and Daniel F. Fitzgerald reviewing his career was presented.

He is also a member of the Knights of Columbus and Chamber of Commerce.

Surrogate Feely has a brother, James E. Feely, a Rochester lawyer.
