Havana—Establishment of a social order "that will guarantee to the inhabitants of the Americas the free development and perfection of their personality, so that our peoples will develop in a way that will be worthy of the Christian principles they profess" was laid down as a guiding principle by the 87 delegates from 24 nations and colonies of this hemisphere at the conclusion of the second Inter-American Catholic Seminar of Social Studies.

New York — (NC) — The tremendous responsibility and great opportunity which the Catholic Youth Organization and other thoroughly American groups have in "meeting the crime problem and preserving the American way of life" from the "evils and corruption of American communism" were emphasized by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in an address here.

The occasion was a dinner of the Board of Directors of the Archdiocesan branch of the CYO at which Cardinal-designate Francis J. Spellman, Archbishop of New York, presented Mr. Hoover with the organization's Club of Champions medal.

In his address Mr. Hoover said he was grateful that CYO leaders are aware of the threat and on guard against the strategy of the high command of American Communists to infiltrate wherever they can. He said:

"In our country and in our own time, we have seen youth movement arise. It still flourishes.

I refer to that high-sounding idealistic title, 'American Youth for Democracy,' which conceals the evils and the corruption of American Communism. This name is but a new one for the former Youth Communist League. It reflects all the sinister purposes of the Communist Party in the United States. It employs the same technique and has the same objective—namely, the conversion of our haven of liberty and freedom of worship as we choose to a Godless, totalitarian State where the adversaries of Democracy can do as they please. Their attacks should be proclaimed from every pulpit and headlined in every newspaper in the land."

Parish to Mark 45th Year Under One Pastor

With its founder and first pastor, the Rev. Thomas F. Connors, still actively in charge, the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, located on Oxford Street, will complete forty-five years of service to the diocese next November, according to the current parish bulletin.

Previously an assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church, Father Connors was commissioned by Bishop Bernard J. McQuaid to establish the new parish in the year 1901 in a section then sparsely settled with Catholics.

The property at the corner of Monroe Avenue and Rutgers Street was purchased from the contributions of the pioneers and the cornerstone was laid in November, 1901.

Mass Jap Conversions Possible

Los Angeles — (NC) — Another affirmation of the reported great opportunity for the spread of the Catholic Faith in present-day Japan has been given here by the Rev. Joseph Spee, a Belgian missionary priest who has arrived in the United States after wartime internment at Kyoto.

If the Church had sufficient priests and material facilities in Japan there would be mass conversions, the 32-year-old Belgian Father asserted. He cited the respect for the Church due to wartime charity of the Pope, and the disavowal of the emperor's

Papal Delegate To Japs Remains

Tokyo — (NC) — The status of Archbishop Paolo Marella, Apostolic Delegate to Japan, is undisturbed by the order of Gen.

Douglas MacArthur suspending all Japanese diplomatic relations with the Vatican and other states.

A spokesman for the U. S. Military Government explained that the suspension order of Japanese diplomatic ties with the Holy See followed a State Department interpretation that the status of the Japanese envoy to the Vatican was the same as that of a Japanese diplomatic representative to any neutral State.

divinity as factors making for quarters in Kyoto in the number two American in Japan."

Speaking of the mentality of his captors he said: "The Japanese mind is generally objective.

Many converts to Christianity had already embraced Christianity and eventually found their way to the Catholic Church. In one public high school in Kyoto the principal offered facilities and other assistance to Catholic missioners if they would conduct classes in English and religion at his school. This is typical of the growing demand for the truth in Japan."

Referring to the extraordinary marks of esteem accorded to one American priest, Father Spee declared: "Next to General Dougglas MacArthur, Father Patrick J.

Byrne at the Maryknoll headquarters in Kyoto is the number two American in Japan."

He told how Japanese news-papermen went to Father Byrne after the surrender and asked him for a reassuring statement to bolster the morale of the people, who had started an exodus in fear of possible brutality from occupation forces.

"Father Byrne told them there would be no looting or rapine by the American soldiers," the priest said, and when his statement was borne out his reputation among the natives was further solidified.

The Belgian priest said the Japanese people wondered when they saw in their newspapers the picture of the emperor being received by General MacArthur,
