Holy Name Men Hear Rules For Capital-Labor Harmony

Hornell — "Labor and management will never arrive at complete harmony so long as human beings sit on each side of the table," James L. Hayes, coordinator of veterans affairs at St. Bonaventure College, told more than 100 members of the Holy Name Society of St. Ann's and St. Ignatius Loyola Churches at the annual banquet in Hotel Sherwood recently.

The Rev. Joseph Donovan, recently transferred to St. Margaret Mary parish in Rochester and former moderator of St. Ann's Society, was a guest of honor. The moderator is the Rev. John Healy.

President of St. Ann's Society is William J. O'Mara and of St. Ignatius Loyola is R. Emmett Donnelly.

Both the Rev. Andrew T. Dissett and the Rev. Ignatius X. Cameron addressed the meeting.

Father Healy assumed his new duties by leading the gathering in reciting the Holy Name pledge. Also introduced during the meeting were the Rev. Paul Gibbons and the Rev. Thomas P. Murley.

Mr. Hayes said that "the labor management bargaining is no different than every day business and each of us is inclined to think that his attitude is right. Human cussedness confirms this attitude at every turn. We know our rights and we know our duties, but it is sometimes difficult to overcome being an ordinary man and give in to our cussedness.

"Both labor and management must agree on certain fundamentals. First, we might ask 'to what is labor entitled?' A living wage is his first right and this means sufficient income to take care of himself and an average-sized family in comfort. It must also look forward to old age.

"Of course this story is not one-sided. The employer, too, has every definite right. The first one is very seldom talked about and yet I believe it is the most important. The employer has the right — and of course the employe has the duty — to a full day's work from the employe. Secondly, the employer is also entitled to contractural security; thirdly, the employer is entitled to all the rights of collective bargaining, and last, but far from least, the employer is entitled to a profit."

Charles Beemer, a grammar school student in Elmira Heights is still leading Chemung County waste paper salvage campaign, a position he has held since last September.

Charles is an altar boy at St. Charles church and is deserving of a great deal of credit for the tireless efforts he has put forth to do a genuine service for his country.
