The Firemen's Association has set aside $1000 to be used for improvement of the property. Supplementing this amount, Geb & Garvan Co., through its President, Francis J. Bopham, presented the first substantial donation toward expenses and many other concerns, such as the Best Repair Co., Kibbey Machine Co., Westcott Rule Co., Guaranteed Parts, and Goulds Pumps, have followed suit. A number of individuals have expressed their intention of contributing also so that the outlook for the completion of the proposed program of improvement, at an early date, is rosy.

The proposed plans call for the disbursement of the fund as follows: $3500 for lights (for evening softball games and other activities); $1740 for fencing; $500 for bleachers; $150 for a public address system and $1200 for grading.

U. S. STAND ON IRAN IS CRITICIZED

The U. S. State Department is guilty of serving purely economic interests in the Iranian dispute according to the Rev. Gerald J. Walsh, S.J., of Fordham University.

Rochester — The U. S. State Department is guilty of serving purely economic interests in the Iranian dispute according to the Rev. Gerald J. Walsh, S.J., of Fordham University.

Charging that the State Department lacks justice in the question of Soviet occupation of Iran, Father Walsh pointed out that the same situation in Poland was practically ignored.

"When Russia took over in Poland, nobody said 'boo'," declared the Jesuit. "But when the Soviet fixed its sights on Iran where there is oil — that was a different story."

Father Walsh spoke Sunday evening in the ninth Christian Culture lecture at Aquinas auditorium. He chose the topic "Dante and Tomorrow," he explained to coincide with the UNO meeting to be held the following day at Hunter college.

Misplaced Confidence

Directing his remarks at the UNO "experts and specialists" who were to convene the following day, he asserted that confidence placed in the negotiations of those men is misplaced.

"The day by day shifting policies of Moscow, London and Washington cannot bring us peace," the priest declared. "Only in conformity with the Divine Will can this be accomplished."

One reason, he said, why these UNO delegates won't bring peace is their preoccupation only with the future and their total neglect of the wealthy tradition of ideas on which civilization is based.

Averring that the UNO delegates must look in the past for their answers, the speaker drew on the writings of Dante to illustrate the timeliness of the poet's ideas even after six centuries.

"Dante wrote the first book on 'one world,'" he stated. "In it he pictured a brotherhood of nations, one, geographically and historically and governed by wisdom, experience and Divine Grace."

Reason For World Court

Dante's world, he said, would have three capitals — Athens, which stands for wisdom, Rome which embodies justice and Jerusalem which signifies revelation.

"Dante, too, gave the most logical reason for a world court," he added. "He said wherever there are squabbles there must be courts, therefore, if there were to be squabbles in his 'one world,' he reasoned, there must be a world court."

"If we want a world at peace," concluded the speaker, "we must have, as the poet suggests, 'whole men,' rounded, balanced integrated citizens who swear a triple allegiance to reason, to law, to faith; to personal dignity, to social duty and to immortal destiny.

"Only then will governments serve the only purpose for which they exist — to guarantee peace to liberty-loving peoples."

Keeping Holy Lent

I'm just a little child, I know,
But now that Lent is here,
I'll try to make these forty days
The best of all the year.

I do not like to keep the fast
Like other folks, 'tis true,
But there are many little things
A child like me can do.

I'll study harder, than before
And never miss a dass,
And every morning I can go
To Church for early Mass.

Or I can keep away
From cake and candy every day
And say some extra prayers
Instead of going out to play.
Whatever I decide to do,
I'll keep up all through Lent
So I'll be all the better
When these forty days are spent.

Rochester Diocesan Council N. C. C. W.

Columbus Civic Center Lobby

Development of a program of education to reach into every parish council was considered by participants in the N.C.C.W. session of the Family Life Conference held recently in Washington.

Such a program would, of necessity, take into account all the factors involved in the development of truly Catholic family life, it was noted.

Thus, it was felt that the spiritual, cultural, and recreational needs of the family should be considered, the questions of home economics, of mental and physical health, of good housing, and of attractive home making should have their place in the planning of this program.

The responsibility for participation in civic community affairs should likewise be considered.

Development of the outline brought out the point that family life should be so planned that prayer, work and play would be participated in as a family group.

A real home was defined as a well-ordered household in which the virtues of mutual forbearance, generosity, patience, kindness are practiced, pride in the home; one in which abound love of God and fellowman.

Mrs. Thomas J. Bolger, president of the Geneva Deanery Council, N.C.C.W., and Mrs. Joseph W. McElroy, chairman of the N.C.C.W. War Relief program in that deanery, conferred here this week with the Diocesan President, Miss Cecilia Yawman, and Mrs. M. H. Keogh, Rochester Deanery President, on the work of the Council.
