

THE STORY UP TO NOW

By the rocky side of the sea, Jesus Christ to the crowd of Galilee and brought before Caiaphas, the high priest of the Jews. Caiaphas, the high priest of the Jews, was sitting on a throne of judgment. He was looking at Jesus with a stern expression. The crowd around him was murmuring and some were pointing at Jesus. Caiaphas was asking Jesus questions and Jesus was answering them. The scene was dramatic and full of tension.

Jesus only the Sorrows of the cross. And what do they read? "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." Again the silence is broken. The crowd becomes restless and noisy. Many laugh and sneer at Christ. "You saved others," they shout at Christ. "Why don't you save yourself?" Christ listens, but He does not answer. Now they shout again. "If you are Christ, why don't you come down from the cross?" Mary knows, her Son must stay on the cross. "Why don't you save yourself?" Christ listens, but He does not answer. Now they shout again. "If you are Christ, why don't you come down from the cross?" Mary knows, her Son must stay on the cross. "Why don't you save yourself?" Christ listens, but He does not answer.

Inspector... places, they could more easily care for these souls. So you see, it is necessary to have missionaries in Eskimo Land, but strengthened by God's grace and encouraged by our prayers and financial aid, the missionaries will be able to bring to the Eskimos the word of God.

Inspector... Brother Paul Sibling, S. M., who is now Provincial Inspector of the Society of Mary, Cincinnati, will be in charge of the instruction of our 100 religious teachers in 22 educational institutions in the United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, China and Japan. He was formerly president of St. Louis College, Kansas, and recently president of St. John's High School, Philadelphia, Pa.

Inspector... Mary listens as her Son moves his swollen lips. "Woman," He says, "behold thy son!" She knows He means John. Then Jesus speaks to the Apostle. "Behold thy mother!" Mary turns to John and the Apostle smiles. Neither speaks, but both understand. Christ gives His Mother into John's protection and care. To His Mother Christ gives John, Mary is now the Mother of John, and not only of John but of all those who will love Christ as John loves Him.

Inspector... It is now early afternoon. Many have left Calvary and have returned to their homes. For them the excitement is over. But there are some who still remain on the hill. They stand about in groups, waiting. No longer do they cry out against Christ, because Jesus refuses to answer their insults.

Inspector... Through His swollen eyes, Jesus looks at the figures before Him. The soldiers, the guards, the priests, the crowd. He looks at the people. Once He was a Hero to these people. Once He was their friend. He cured their sick. Taught them. Forgave them. Now He is dying for them but they do not know it.

Inspector... In this world, many pagans are ignorant of the word of God. Our missionaries are striving to make this statement false. Were I to become a missionary, I should like to go to Eskimo Land. The Eskimos are interesting people, but many of them have never heard about God. As you know, Eskimo land comprises Northern Canada and Alaska. The Eskimos are believed to be descendants of the Mongolians. They have oval faces, small hands and feet, and have broad, flat noses. They are very hardy and their bodies are very hardy. Their clothing is made of fur or skins. The Eskimos living near the sea, live in sod houses but those living inland dwell in houses of snow. They fish a great deal because most of their food and clothing is supplied by fish.
