Million Marks Sent To Russian Held Zone for Relief

Hamburg, Germany — (RNS) — Leaders of the German Caritas, Catholic charitable organization, voted at a meeting here to send one million marks for relief work in the Russian occupation zone...

The meeting was attended by 150 priests and laymen and by Bishops from all the German occupation zones. Also present was the Rev. Richard A. Flynn, representing the War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference...

He announced that the first shipment of food donated by American Catholics and Quakers has arrived at Bremen. The KCWC representative reported that sixteen trucks have been provided to transport the supplies to various distribution centers.

The plight of political exiles in Germany was a major topic of discussion. It was announced that every diocesan organization will seek to build "personalized" camps for the care of children, the aged, and the sick.

Dr. Otto Isard, director of the Office for Relief of Postwar Germany in Geneva, declared that deportations have caused a "terrible" problem for the churches in Germany. He cited as an example the fact that many Catholics are going into the northern areas where there have been few Catholics and where churches are now being hard pressed to provide spiritual care.
