Hospital Digs Out After Flood as New Storms Hit Elmira

Grateful for the cooperation and assistance given them, Sisters of St. Joseph and the hospital staff of St. Joseph's Hospital, Elmira are still industriously working to rehabilitate the hospital following the disastrous flood of two weeks ago.

During the past week Elmira has again been hard hit by 3 electrical storms. The electricity and power were cut off in the hospital. Emergency lighting systems worked automatically and filled an urgent need as an operation was in progress and was successfully finished during the storm.

The Sisters are deeply appreciative of the magnanimous assistance given by the people of Elmira during the flood and after. City officials, the Fire Department, New York State Armory, the Elmira Reformatory, Mark Twain Hotel, Hospital employes, numerous business concerns and volunteer workers helped unstintingly during the trying days. To all of these the St. Joseph's Hospital Board, the Staff and the Sisters extend their gratitude.

Evidence of the flood and destruction is still great. Work of rehabilitation is steadily in progress. Reconstruction goes forward in the boiler room, kitchen, tray room, physical therapy department, cafeterias, auditorium, store rooms, morgue, transformer room and other units. Painting and decorating because of cracking and falling plaster is impossible at the present time.

Among other contributions, hospital officials announce receipt this week of a $300 donation from Rochester Regiment, Knights of St. John and Ladies Auxiliaries.
