Report on 'David the King'

By Rev. Benedict Ehmann

Widely and justly heralded has been 'The Confined Playground' by Cyril Connolly...

There is always the danger that when one mentions...

But Connolly on reviewing Connolly's method on the modern novel...

And he writes of the writer who 'goes native'...

This is the eleventh installment of 'I Chose Freedom' by Victor Kravchenko...

In Bolshevik I was appointed Party organizer...

On the morning of the sixteenth, Colonel Varvankin sent me to Moscow...

among us - I suspected it was a Communist who covered my job as political commissar...

Victor Kravchenko returned to Moscow during the first winter of the war...

On my return to Bolshevik personal troubles were complicated by a gnawing toothache...

Gladya Schmitt prepared herself very seriously for the writing of David the King...

David is a noble Scripture figure - the shepherd, the hunter, the warrior, the king...

These comments tally with Fr. Harold C. Gardner's report in America...
