Nuns Off for India Mission Via Rail, Boat, Elephant

Holy Cross, Ind. (NC) — Cross missionaries have assisted in the evangelization of eastern Bengal and today there are four established settlements where Holy Cross Sisters conduct village schools and dispensaries. They are, materially, work and study, visit the sick, baptize the dying, and tend to orphans.

From Bombay to the interior they will travel by railroad, row boat and elephant, until they reach their destination, a little jungle settlement of thatched-roof, clay stove, and cool oil lamps; rice fields and oxen drawn plows, howling jackals and native drums.

For the past 100 years, Holy Cross missionaries have assisted in the evangelization of eastern Bengal and today there are four established settlements where Holy Cross Sisters conduct village schools and dispensaries. They are, materially, work and study, visit the sick, baptize the dying, and tend to orphans.

Sisters have recently founded and trained a native Sisterhood to work among their own people. Trained as teachers and nurses, the young Bengali sisters represent one of the first native Sisterhoods in India.

The parents, brothers and Sisters of the Holy Cross, who number approximately 1,000, conduct educational institutions, hospitals, orphanages, summer camps and mission schools in the United States, Canada, and France, and carry on foreign mission work in India, South America and Haiti.

Heroism of French Priest, Ambassador of Jews Told

New York (NC) — The heroism of a French priest who saved thousands of Jews from the clutches of the Nazis during the war, is being told in a new book, "The Ambassador of the Jews," by the author, Mr. J. H. Murray.

Mr. Murray recounts that Father Benoit, who served as an interpreter with the French army, went to Rome shortly before the fall of France, and when Italy entered the war, moved to Marseilles. There, the author says, he immediately became active in the resistance movement and his interest in Jewish problems made him a willing and effective collaborator with Jewish committees in the town, which in behalf of French and foreign Jews.

Father Benoit, it is stated, set up an efficient organization for concealing Jewish and other anti-Nazi refugees into Spain and Switzerland, and ultimately succeeded in conveying them from Marseilles to Nice and Cadix.

Belgian Priest-Hero Of World War I Dies

Antwerp (NC) — The late Father Busch, dean of St. Vrain in the Diocese of Liege, Belgium, who died recently at the age of 80, achieved distinction during World War I by saving the lives of numerous prominent Belgians and Frenchmen imprisoned by the Germans at the Siegburg jail, where he was held.

At the outbreak of World War II Father Busch was pastor of a parish near the German-Belgian border. When the Nazis swept into Belgium he escaped to France where he remained hidden until after the liberation.
