PATRICK LOSES FAVOR AS NAME IN BRITAIN

London — (NC) — Patrick is dropping out of fashion as a name for boys, though Patricia still holds favor for girls, according to a survey made here by the "Universe," London Catholic weekly.

In the past year in Our Lady of Lourdes' parish, Glasgow, for instance, out of 100 baptisms only one baby received the name Patrick. There was no Bridget and only five Marys.

One parent in this predominantly Irish neighborhood said none of his five sons was named Patrick "as it was not a good name for a job."

A London pastor said that while Patrick was certainly unpopular now many parents gave their girls the name Patricia as a second name.

"There is never a Bridget nowadays," he said. "The reason is that Bridget is a popular name to tack on to maids. Mary, too, has gone out of fashion. Often in its place we have Maureen. Of course, Maureen is the same as Mary though people who choose Maureen do not seem to realize it. This is obvious in a case where parents have given their daughter the names Maureen Mary."

"People go a good deal by the sound of a name," a priest said. "The sound, not the saint, seems to be what matters most to them. They do not know the lives of the saints. The name John is still very popular, and Anthony and David and there are any number of Annes or Anns. People born in Ireland remain faithful to Mary and Patrick. Their children are not so keen on it and their grandchildren even less so, especially where there are mixed marriages.

"There is no falling off in Irish names for girls. We often have Brendas and Monicas and Sheilas and people are still fond of Biblical names such as Ruth."

The pastor of a London east end "cockney-Irish" parish, said however: "Film star fashions leave us cold. My people are rigidly traditional. There are as many Marys, Patricks and Josephs as there were 20 years ago. Even where there are marriages with foreign seamen this holds good."

Another London pastor said that there are so many requests for "fancy" names that the priest had frequently to insist at the last minute on the addition of a saint's name.

Slur Confirmed By Tito Envoy

Quebec — (NC) — Zako Popovitch, the new Yugoslav Consul General at Montreal, says he has nothing to retract from a statement which was considered an insult to His Holiness Pope Pius XII and the Catholics of Canada, L'Action Catholique, Quebec daily newspaper, reports.

Soon after his appointment to Canada, Mr. Popovitch charged Catholics with publishing erroneous and garbled reports on the trial of Archbishop Aloysius Stepinac, imprisoned Zagreb prelate, and claimed that the Archbishop had committed so many grave crimes that he was not able to defend himself. Mr. Popovitch further claimed that neither Archbishop Stepinac nor the Pope had protested the massacre of Serbs who had refused to become Catholics.

Mr. Popovitch's charges have been publicly refuted by Catholic newspapers here and have been criticized on the floor of the Canadian Parliament.

L'Action Catholique's latest interview with the Yugoslav Consul General states that "Popovitch affirms that he has no regrets. This constitutes a veritable provocation," the newspaper report continues, "and places the Federal Government in the obligation of demanding or imposing his immediate recall."

Ex-Envoy Kennedy's Stand On Reds Scored by Priest

New York — (NC) — Analyzing the stand taken by former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy that economic aid to stop Soviet imperialism would so impoverish the United States that this country would be an easy prey to Communism, and that Soviet expansion would be self-defeating because it would disillusion the people, the Rev. John F. Cronin, S.S., Assistant Director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, declared such a policy would ~~ruin Europe~~ over to the Reds by default. He made the statement in a letter to the New York Times.

Father Cronin said that the culmination of the Kennedy plan would be to seriously affect the colonial and the Latin world, and sow the seeds of self-destruction.

"Comintern activity in the colonial world and Latin America is already achieving great success," Father Cronin pointed out. "If Europe goes Communist, increased Soviet prestige would give impetus to already fruitful plans." He asserted that a policy of isolationism by the United States would fit in perfectly with Communist plans.

"Granted the thesis Communism considers the United States as the prime enemy, its real problem is to build up a military potential which would surpass our maximum strength . . . Only by obtaining the skilled manpower, managerial ability and machine tools of western Europe can they hope to cope with our industrial resources. Mr Kennedy's proposed policy would give them the industrial basis for military supremacy."
