Birth Control Article Flayed

kins says: "child spacing means maternal aging." Dr. Eastman's survey, based on investigations of 40,000 maternity cases is published in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology April 1944.

"From the patriotic viewpoint... What would have happened to this great country of ours during World War II if it were not for the women who lived in conformity with the natural law and supplied the manpower necessary for the preservation of our country? What contribution did the Birth Controllers make to the war?

eighth of ten children, that Shakespeare was one of eight children; the Beethovens, the twelfth child.

"How terrible it would be if the 'Apaches of race suicide' would direct their energies to the solution of economic problems of security that family welfare demands."
