Three Religious Founders -By Rev. Benedict Ehmann-

At the beginning of the August calendar, there is an interesting consellation of three saints, like a gleaming triangle in the summer night skies. They were religious founders, distant from each other in time, but clustered

These saints are a sign, a reminder, of the immortal power of renewal with which God has gifted His ('hurch. Thère arise grest needs, great crises, in the life of the Church, and humanly speaking her chance of sur vival is hopeless. But faith has its assurance in Christ's words that the gates of hell will not prevail against the Church. and that He will be with her all days even to the consummatten of the world. At the darkest moments He asserts His presence once again in some great and holy leader in whom and through whom His vivilving energy Works strong ly And behold there is resur rection, and renewal and hope ful progress once more

Dominic was the earliest of these three founders. His cen tury was the early thirteenth In his time there was the Albigensian crisia. To our cars now that sounds remote and rEd But it was wild and appallingly close to the Catholics of those days. Look up "Albigensianism" in the Catholic Encyclopedia and see for yourself. It was as real and dangerous then as Communism is now, and every bit as lawless and perverted and successful. It corrupted the faith of tens of thousands. Even the governments were alarmed. and a military expedition was sent to crush the growing movement. It was Dominic's neston in life to undertake shat arms and warfare could not accomplish Taking the weapons of the spirit, fasting, and prayer, and the preaching if the divine truth, he organ zel his Order of Preachers. and invaded the areas and centers where the terrible heresy had done its work. He was God's man at the zero hour

Ans so was Ignatius Loyola, the next in time. Ignatius belonged to the sixteenth century. during which the Protestant defection was rending the unity of the Church He was a Spaniard, and a soldier Coming across this roustabout fighter no one would have picked him out from the other thousands as God's man for the Church's new zero bour. But he was, and the way he found it out and went chout il makes one of the most lascinating chapters in history. One of the best accounts of it in English is by the genial Fr Broderick, and is called Origin of the Jesuita. And there I've put down the title of the Order which Ignatius founded, one of the greatest Orders in Church history. serving its purpose in a most practical and efficient way to save Catholic Europe from total collapse and to make up for the Church's losses with new tens of thousands in newly discovered continents.

Most recent in history was

longs to the eighteenth century, a contemporary of George Washington and our own Revolutionary War. He founded the Redemptorist Order. The occasion for this was less in mediately critical than to the other two cases. Yet in its way it was, and ta no less important. It was to take care of the neglected rural areas. where thousands of people were never or hardly ever reached by priestly care - the kind of people described by Carlo Levi in Christ Stopped at Eboll. It is where ignorance prevalls, that error makes its worst and most successful inroads. Simple and sympathetic instruction in Christian doctrine is always the answer Alphonsus did many things. but this is his most important contribution, and it is his Order's most characteristic mark Here in America, the Redemptorists came to be established in the large cities. chiefly because they came to take care of the multitudes of European immigrants, many of whom had settled in the cities in search of "American suc-

As we pass this weekend under the shining light of this triple constellation, we should think and pray with hope that what God has done for His Church in times past He can still do, and will do, in the new zero hour toward which the minutes of our present days are ticking. Lord, give us the Saint, the Saints, we need today'
