Hymn Written For Veterans

F. M. Ferrarese, organist for the past 17 years at St. Lucy's Church, has been compelled to retire because of failing eyesight.

Mr. Ferrarese recently received a copy right for his new composition "Queen of Peace, Pray for Us." The latest work is dedicated to the mothers, wives and sweethearts of men in the service.

The hymn is an "Ave Maria" in four four time in the key of A major. The movement begins with a rhythmic expression by the organ followed by the "Ave Maria" in solo tenor. After this the poetical phase of the composition is taken up in large with prayer in F minor, followed by arpeggios to the harp and the melody from the organ with vocal "Holy Mary, Mother of God, Pray for Us." As an introduction, the composition carries the distant sound of bells that call the worshippers to prayer.

Another hymn, composed by Mr. Ferrarese, is titled "We Long for God." The veteran organist also composed "A Tear on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier," a funeral march.

Especially recommended in the confessions was the integration in daily conduct of acts of good-will and helpfulness, such as visiting the sick and aiding those in difficulty.

Prayer was stressed as the greatest weapon in the quest for salvation with daily recitation of the Rosary, daily visits and daily Communion recommended.

The men were reminded of the vision of Our Lady of Fatima who urged penitence and the need of prayer for sinners.

'Easy To Forget' Priest Says At Memorial Mass

Auburn — "It is so easy to forget," With these words, Rev. Bernard Newcomb, pastor of St. Francis Church, which was jammed by hundreds of Auburnians. Guests of honor were the Gold Star Mothers who were conducted to reserved seats by the Auxiliary of the Calumet Post, Italian American War Veterans.

Rites began with the raising of the military church flag over the American flag to signify a military church service. A procession, headed by the Gold Star Mothers riding in special cars, and made up of Calumet Post members, their Drum and Bugle Corps and Holy Name Society members, marched from the post rooms to the church grounds, where the post massed colors with those of other veterans organizations.

Officers of Mass were celebrated by Father Newcomb, assisted by the Rev. Adolph Gabbani, pastor of St. Francis, and Rev. Bernard Hickey, assistant pastor.

Father Newcomb's address follows:

"How easily we forget, and we might say this is the one advantage and the disadvantage of time. As a great remedy for the many ills that beset us, time is a great competitor of the wonder drugs, the sulphas and penicillins. For many the heart-feltness that time has smoothed away many of the intense hatreds, dislikes, quarrels that time has caused to smolder into nothing. It is this quality in time that makes us forget that makes us think that causes us to stop from rushing headlong into a hopeless muddle, this is the great advantage of time."

"But just as the drug morphine can be dangerous when misused; so also time can be dangerous when we let that quality of forgetfulness pull us into a state of indifference and total neglect of our dependence upon God. When through the passing of the years we forget Him completely. In recent years the whole world has felt the effects of the evil caused by men of little or no belief in God. In their early years they did believe in Him, but the passing of years brought indifference to Him, and they turned into total forgetfulness of Him. Who made them. And needless to say, the total unrest in the world today, the obstacle to that peace for which we have been waiting for vainly, is caused by a nation and its puppet states whose leaders glory in their contempt of God. Time has not only caused them to forget, it has enabled them to poison the minds of the youth. And of course, we too, have been blighted by time. Back in the early 40's those who remained at home will remember the prayers, the Masses, the visits, the promises, they made to God. How the churches were crowded, for then they realized their great need and dependence upon God. But now the danger has passed, and we can forget Him, and the promises, those promises of love, they were made under duress, and we can forget them and Him. How kindly time has treated us."

"With those in the same. They can remember occasions when they thought that every minute was their last; when they were seeing men dying on all sides, huge ships being sent up in flames, and the great planes of the air plummeting down the flames, then they realized their own insignificance, and how much they owed and depended upon God. And if they came back home, what they would not do for God, what a changed man they would be. But time has been kind, all those horrible experiences and sights have been forgotten, and so have their promises to God."

"Would Cry Out!"

"And so time good or bad brings us to another anniversary of the cessation of hostilities, and again we are gathered to honor those who have passed out of the realm of time into Eternity, and

New Abbey Planned At Benedict's Tomb

Bacon — (N. C.) — The cornerstone for a new Benedictine Abbey to be erected near the tomb of St. Benedict, founder of the Benedictine Order, at Saint Benedict-Libre in the Diocese of Orleans, has been laid by His Eminence Emmanuel Celestine Cardinal Suhard, Archbishop of Paris, during festivities marking the 14th centenary of St. Benedict.

Remains of the saint have been resting at this place since the seventh century. His body was first interred at the Abbey of Montecassino, which was destroyed in World War II. The Abbey was pillaged by the Lombards in the seventh century and abandoned. For the reason, Abbot Argulf of the Benedictine monastery at Fleury-sur-Loire undertook an expedition to recover the relics of St. Benedict. They were found at Montecassino, together with those of St. Benedict's sister, Saint Scholastica. The relics of St. Benedict were taken to Fleury and those of Saint Scholastica to Le Mans.
