

Mr. Miller
Town Light

1947-1948 To the Rev.
John T. Curran, Director of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, he wishes to say "Thank You".

He has been a great help.

His main difficulty was the matter of finance. With the cooperation of the local members of the Council, the Legislature passed the bill. This legislation authorizes a new group of exempted authorities and a cooperative set up. Today there are 300 members in this elected development cooperative and it is expected to add before long. The final act was the blessing of the new plant.

women, Jeannette Anabed opined that "they are her eternal destiny." She stated that women have a responsibility to know their rights. She also suggested sending for the pamphlet on the Declaration of Human Rights, National Catholic Welfare Conference, 1312 Massachusetts Ave. N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

Marija Schantz, presenting an interpretation of the Papal Encyclical on Women, averred that "woman inspired, can craft a nation, a family, but that she can also destroy it."

Explaining the necessity for a pre-marital course, Mrs. Lawrence Wals draw a picture of the rapid pace of modern courtship and marriage, which considers only the wedding and the housing situation. She also urged married couples to attend Camp Conferences to renew their marriage vows and intentions.

Others on the speaking program were Miss Mary Newsome, president Elmira Deacons; Rev. Thos. K. Cleary, Corning; Mrs. Frank T. Curran, Diocesan Council president, Rochester, and Miss Loretta Murphy, Horseheads.

The Very Rev. William J. Brian, V.F., Dean of the Elmira Deacons; Rev. Edward J. Tolster, Rochester; Rev. L. John Hedges, Ithaca; Rev. G. Leo MacNamara, Auburn, and Father Callahan were seated at the speakers' table.

In lacking a school for proper education.

Pre-Marital Training

Stating that a pre-marital course would be started in Rochester in the immediate future, he expressed the sincere hope that similar arrangements would be made in all parts of the Diocese so as to acquaint young men and women fully in their responsibilities of married life. This course will be a vital factor in combating juvenile delinquency, he reminded his audience.

Father Callahan described the single and married states of life as "the two arms of the Church." He declared that the family no longer holds the sacred place it once held but is looked upon "as a group of people thrown together, with no unity or harmony."
