han. Rochester Deancry moder asserted, is no formal organicafour positive means which Council activity will employ in furthering the restoration of dig nity to family life. The points covered were preparation for selection of reading, and religious shrines in the home.

Speakers and their topics were Mrs. Arthur P. Farren, director of the D.C.C.W. Speakers Bureau, Pre-Cana Conferences; Mrs. Lawrence P. Weis, Cans Conferences; Books in Family Life; Mrs. Elmer Loritz, Shrines in the Home.

KEYNOTE OF the Council's 1949 project was sounded by Bishop James E. Kearney, who celebrated a low Mass in Old St. Mary's Church in honor of

Our Lady of Good Counse' Comparing the sanctually of the home to the sanctuary of God, Bishop Kearney tectated "Outside of the sanctuary of God there should be no holier most than the sanctuary of the home The Bishop recommended provide music for dancing from prayer, with particular emphasis on the rosary, and frequent in ception of the Sacraments, as the best means of insuring santity in the home

Calling attention to a "nation wide consciousness that the home must be restored to a place of honor," he stated "We have reached a state where it is thought necessary to propagandize the home."

HE CONGRATULATED the Catholic women's organization on its efforts in behalf of the farily and told them: "You your selves are the decisive factor in determining the future of the family" He invoked the continued guidance and inspirat on Assisting the Bishop at Mass were the Rev. Dr. John E. Maney chaplains, and the Rev. E let McMannus and Rev John Hodges, as acolytes. In the sanc tuary were the Rev. Dr. George F. Kettell, Rev. John O'Donnell. Rev Albert J. Shamon. Rev Thomas Cleary, Rev. Francis Hester and Rev. Leslie Whalen. The D.C.CW's constitution was revised and adopted at a business report session in the Seneca's Red Room.

With Mrs. Frank T. Curtin. retiring diocesan president, presiding, approximately 200 women gathered in the ballroom for the luncheon. Miss Jeanmette Anable, toastmistress, paid tribute to Mrs. Curtin's successful leadership during 1947. Father Sharpon. diocesan moderator, was praised by Bishop Kearney for his untiring work with the D.C.C.W.
