Farm Jobs Seen Important by Pope

Rome (AP)—The importance of farm vocations "in this period of almost universal hunger" was emphasized by Pope Pius XII in a letter to the Rev. Joseph Archambault, S.J., head of the Catholic Social Weeks movement in Canada.

The Pontiff expressed hope that the "Social Weeks will not only enkindle a flame over rural areas, but make agricultural workers more conscious of their role, more aware of the dignity of their life and mission, and more inspired with the greatness and sanctity of their task."

County Unit Organized By County War Veterans

Heading the temporary officers of newly formed Chemung County Chapter, Catholic War Veterans as commander is Stephen J. Andrewson of St. Nicholas Post.

Delegates from the four Elmira posts installed the temporary officers Monday in Columbus Center. State officers of the C.W.V. affiliated.

Paul J. Dolan, vice commander of the N. Y. State Department, reiterated the Catholic Vets stand against Communism in an address to representatives of Posts 1144, 1178, St. Nicholas; and 1068, St. Michael's.

Temporary officers of the county chapter who were installed by Vice Commander Dolan: Field Organizer William J. Cummings of Buffalo; and Harold A. Walker, adjutant of Post 506, Buffalo, were: Stephen J. Andrewson of St. Nicholas, commander; Michael Spravk of St. Nicholas; and Leonard Corsi of St. Anthony's, treasurer.

The temporary officers will serve until delegates from all posts in the county meet to elect a regular slate of officers. Mr. Cummings explained that legislation granting a national charter to the Catholic War Veterans is pending in Congress. The organization is officially recognized by government agencies, including the Veterans' Administration, as well as by the state of New York, Cummings said.
