

Field Work Listed for 35 Nazareth College Seniors

Thirty-five senior students in the Education and Sociology departments of Nazareth College will leave their lectures and books this week for field work.

The prospective teachers will be in the field until the Christmas vacation. During this time, they will observe the theories they have learned in college classes demonstrated in practical experience in teaching and social work.

The prospective teachers have been observing veteran teachers in various schools in Rochester and vicinity every Tuesday morning during the entire first semester and next Monday morning will take over the classes, which they have observed.

Among the English majors, Mary Fennell of Macedon, and Elaine Kolenik will teach at Monroe High School; Doris Inverso, at Benjamin Franklin High School; Helen Waples, at Jefferson High School; and Anne Dwyer and Betty White, at Brighton High School.

As for the Sociology students, Mary Mary will teach at St. Stanislaus High School; Mary Mary Kagan, at Buffalo; and Mary Ellen Truett, at East Rochester, both of East Rochester, both seniors in the Fine Arts Department will do their field work at Benjamin Franklin High School and at the Victor High School respectively. Mary Tierney, French major, and Anne McLaughlin, Chemistry major, will both be at West High School.

THE SOCIAL STUDIES majors, Mary Hope will be at East High School and Joan Lynch will be at John Marshall High School. Majors in the Public School Music Department, Arline Radice, Marie Amadio, and Helen L'Aczy, of Buffalo; Doris Kennedy, of Canastota; and Virginia Inverso, of Utica, have been observing in the Music classes at Monroe High School and teaching in various classes at School No. 23 and will have a period of practice teaching early next semester.

Six of the Sociology students will do their field work in the Department of Social Welfare of the County of Monroe. Miss Marie Josephine Slattery and Miss Jean Sweney in the Family Division and the Misses Jean Kelly, Frances Collette and Peggy Fuller in the Child Placing Division. Miss Constance Smith and Miss Hildegard Heinrich will be in the Family Division of the Rochester Catholic Charities and five young ladies will assist the professional staff at the Settlement House, sponsored by the Social Action Division of the Catholic Charities. Miss Josephine Agnello and Miss Catherine Clark will be at the Genesee Institute and Miss Mary Agnes Callahan, Miss Elaine Hinkley and Miss Marie Meyer at Charles House.

Miss Elizabeth Gilling will be introduced to Medical Social work in the Social Service Department of Rochester General Hospital and Miss Rosemarie Lucka will be in the same department at Highland Hospital.

Four members of this year's Social Work group are residents of Syracuse and these young ladies will do their field work in Syracuse. Miss Joan McNelly, of Fayetteville, and Miss Mary Burns will be with the Syracuse Catholic Charities and Mary Mary X. O'Sullivan will get her field experience in the Juvenile Court. Miss Kathleen Fox, of Canastota, will be in the Social Service Department of St. Joseph's Hospital in Syracuse.

Three members of the Class of 1948, who are in the Science Department, are now at St. Joseph's Hospital in Syracuse for their clinical work in laboratory technology. The first student to be graduated from the recently organized Interior Decoration Division of the Fine Arts Department, Miss Aileen O'Dea, will spend her orientation period with the Hayden Company.

Fr. Cuddy Tells Action League Of Stigmatic

Auburn — Rev. Paul Cuddy, Catholic chaplain at Sampson College and Army chaplain during World War II, was guest speaker at the November meeting of the Catholic Action League of St. Alphonsus Church held recently in the parish house, E. Genesee St. Father Cuddy, a son of Michael J. Cuddy, well known Auburn merchant, spoke of his experiences in the European theater of operations.

Father Cuddy, who saw the famed mystic, Theresa Neuman in Bavaria, and who was returned to the United States in July, 1946, said:

"We had read for years both in the religious and secular press of this extraordinary woman, who for over twenty years has borne the stigmata or marks of the wounds of Christ in her body. We had read of the visions she has of the sufferings of Our Lord. We had known that all the years her only food or nourishment has been daily Holy Communion."

"ON A THURSDAY, Sept. 1943, we saw her and spoke with her as she is normally, simple, gracious, matter-of-fact. The next day we saw her a transformed woman, undergoing the passion of Christ, bleeding from the eyes and head and side, unconscious to the present, enduring the agony of Good Friday, 2000 years ago."

"We left that afternoon, when the agony was completed and were greatly moved by a graphic manifestation of the love of God for sinful mankind."

First part of the League's program was taken up with the business meeting that was presided over by President Louise Merz and opened with a prayer by Rev. Robert Dobbertin, spiritual advisor of the group. It was announced that the new St. Alphonsus Library is complete and modern in every detail and that it will be formally opened Sunday afternoon, Nov. 30.

The opening will be in the form of a tea for which the members of the Catholic Action League and Young Ladies' Society will be hostesses. The affair will be open to the public and to all interested. A special course in library work has been given by Mrs. Harvey Clark to the young women of the parish who have volunteered to act as librarians during the hours that the library will be open.

Mission Supply Ship Nearly Wrecked in Storm

Montreal (NC) — The "Regina Polaris," supply ship for the 30 Arctic missions of the Hudson Bay Vicariate, miraculously escaped being wrecked early this fall, according to word received by members of the Oblate Community here.

The "Regina Polaris" originally built as a mine sweeper for the Russians, sailed from Montreal on Aug. 14 on a 11,000-mile return trip to carry supplies to the far northern missionaries.

Aboard the "Regina Polaris" were Bishop Marc Lacroix, O.M.I., Vicar Apostolic of Hudson Bay, five Oblate missionaries and a crew of twelve, when she set from Montreal.

The major part of the supply ship's work had been completed when disaster almost struck. This work included the delivery of mail, provisions and coal to the Oblates at Igloodik for the first time in eight years.

THE RETURN of the "Regina Polaris" from Igloodik to Repulse Bay was effected without great danger but on the evening of Sept. 20, riding at anchor in the bay, the ship was hit by one of the terrifying equinoctial storms, with a gale blowing at 70 miles an hour and a blinding snow which reduced visibility to zero.

At 5:30 on the morning of Sept. 21, the anchors could not hold any longer. The ship began to drift rapidly towards the reefs offshore. The passengers were ordered to stand by the lifeboats, while Captain S. W. Rodda of England struggled at the wheel. With the aid of instinct and prayer, he succeeded in guiding the ship through the reefs in the boiling sea, despite the lack of visibility. Relief was only temporary. He headed out to the deeper waters, but the strength of the storm was so great it forced the ship off course and back towards the shore.

SUDDENLY visibility cleared for a moment. It was seen that the ship was running almost straight for shore. The captain tried to swing her around but the ship did not respond because of the gale. Suddenly she ran aground in shallow water. Crew and passengers threw what they could of the cargo overboard in an effort to lighten the ship.

Efforts to refloat her failed, and slowly she turned her stern to the sea. For time it was feared she would founder, but she settled with a list of 25 degrees. Fortunately the ship rested on a sand bar. Had it been rock it would have been fatal for the ship.

For the greater part of a day, the "Regina Polaris" remained in this precarious position, with Bishop Lacroix, missionaries and crew aboard. In the afternoon the prayers of the missionaries were answered. The storm abated, and with the arrival of high tide, Captain Rodda was able to refloat the ship and bring her back to a safe harbor, little the worse for wear.

Poles Get Truth in Church Alone, Exiled Leader Says

London (NC) — Poles attending the churches are never before, because churches are the only places of public assembly left in Poland where the truth is spoken and manifested," Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, exiled leader of the Polish "Peasant" Party, told this correspondent in an exclusive interview here.

Recognition of this fact by the Communist-dominated Warsaw regime is responsible for the persecution of the Church, "which has been under cover for two years and has now come into the open," he said.

Mikolajczyk was obviously overcome by the news of the capture of three companions on his escape from Poland. "They will make my poor friends pay for my escape," he said. "The Communist revenge upon a man whom they failed to trap is through persecution of the women who surround him. In this case Mrs. Maria Hulewicz, my private secretary, who had bravely risked her life for Poland and the Allies while serving as a courier for the underground during the war."

Others arrested after crossing the Polish-Czechoslovak border were Wincenty Bryla, former treasurer of the Peasant party, and Mieczyslaw Dabrowski, whom Mr. Mikolajczyk identified as his "good friend" and former secretary.

Italian Bishops Warn on Masons

Washington (NC) — Bishops of the department of Liguria in Italy have issued a warning to the faithful against a Masonic sect which has invited Catholics to join it on the plea that it is first of all antireligious and anti-Catholic prejudice, the Vatican radio has reported in a broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors.

While the Bishops cannot but be satisfied to hear that one of the several Masonic rites has abandoned its antireligious position, the Vatican broadcast said, "nevertheless they await adequate proof of this fact."

Cardinal Sarda Priests Sydney (CRNS) — Five Sydney and two South Australian priests have volunteered for five years' service in Japan, in response to a recent plea by Norman Cardinal Gilroy, Archbishop of Sydney.

Cardinal Gilroy said he had promised Japanese bishops to send missionaries to their country.
