Elmira Catholic Highlights

Our Lady's Sodality was held Tuesday, February 24. During the course of the evening discussion and radio plays were presented by the various committees.

Our Lady's Committee held an informal discussion on Catholic Home Week followed by a skit on the same subject. The discussion was to emphasize the display of family pictures which has been on the bulletin board.

Theresa Morgan recited a timely poem entitled "The Church Will Not Die In It." Afterwards there was a round table discussion on Catholic Books by several members of the Publicity Committee.

Sophomore to Have Assembly The school is looking forward to the Sophomore Assembly which will take place sometime during the coming week. It will consist of an adolescent comedy in one act entitled "Grandmother's Nick." Those participating are Jack Titus, as Nick; Dolores Doran as Sally; John Cusick as Al; Lois Boyle as Dorothy; Andrew Von Hendy as Mr. Parks and Barbara Romasser as Grandma. Also scheduled for the assembly is an original parody by the Sophomore boys, and a collection of songs.

Alumni Notes Five graduates of last year's class, in training at St. Joseph's Hospital, were capped at exercises held in the hospital chapel on Sunday evening. The girls so honored were: Mary Lou Cox, Mary Ann Nardie, Rita Malone, Kathleen Marchipook and Gloria Smith.

Senior Wins Essay Contest Your Courier Journal reporter, Ann Reidy, was adjudged winner of the National Security Week essay contest on Universal Military Training which was open to public and parochial high school children. Ann won the $10.00 prize for her theme entitled, "Why the United States should have Universal Military Training."

Judges for the essay contest were: Atty. Robert P. McDonnell, Atty. Lowell T. Teetes, the Rev. John F. Stearns, Cornelius J. Milliken and Thomas E. Byrne. James Murphy, a Junior at Catholic High, received honorable mention in this contest.

Many students are now encouraged to begin work on the K. of C. essay contest with papers due on April 15.

Parren was one of the small number of the Catholic Worker Group who ten years ago opened St. Joseph's House of Hospitality Inc., a charitable institution on South Avenue where between 50 and 200 homeless and transient men have been given free meals daily. He is president of the board of directors which operates the institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Farren live at 107 Electric Ave. They have a three-year-old son. Mrs. Farren is chairman of the Catholic Speakers Bureau of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Priest Warns Men of Red Infiltration

Corning — Speaking before members of the Holy Name Society of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, Sunday morning at the Communion breakfast, the Rev. Giles Webster, O.M.M., of St. Bonaventure College warned his audience of the infiltration of Communistic ideas into American ways of life.

Father Webster was introduced by the Rev. Edward McKelvy, assistant pastor. Led by Daniel Killigrew, president, about 135 members of the society attended Mass in St. Vincent de Paul's Church and received Holy Communion. The breakfast followed in the school hall.
