Daughter of Ex-Red Hears God's Name for First Time

London (NC)—A five-year-old British girl living in London had never heard the word "God" mentioned until two months ago. Then just before her baptism, the word's meaning was then explained to her by her father, Douglas Hyde, then city editor of Britain's leading communist publication, the Daily Worker.

Juvenile Drugs So-Called Comic Books Can Harm Adults Also

Right now thousands of pigtailed and befreckled young Americans are breathlessly pouring over their week's supply of death ray killings, sub-machine gun duels, atomic bomb-dreadfuls are contrived for whomsoever will buy them, by publishers who have built the comic book into a hundred million dollar a year business.
