

Charity by Bankers Urged
 Rome — RN — An appeal that bankers practice charity by helping to relieve the misery of the postwar world was made by Pope Pius XII at an audience to the staff of the Rome office of the Greek Bank of Italy.

Prison Chaplain, Stresses Problems of Aged Persons

Need for greater consideration of the aged was stressed by the Rev. Gregory Dugan, chaplain at Auburn State Prison, in an address before the Auburn Lions Club on Wednesday, July 21.

Speaking on "Life in a State Institution," Father Dugan spoke mainly of his experiences as chaplain in the Monroe County Home prior to his coming to Auburn six years ago.

THE PRIEST NOTED that all elderly persons, no matter why they are confined, seem to "want to get out." He told of a couple who one day walked away from the County Home and despite their age successfully found a dwelling. They then called the relief office for aid. They stayed away for a year. Father related, but eventually their failing health forced them to return to the institution.

As men and women become old and feeble, the chaplain said, many change their disposition. "Men sometimes become like children," he declared, "and have to be handled as such." Principal duty of the chaplain, he added,

"is to listen to their quarrels and soothe their feelings." Dwelling briefly on his work in Auburn prison, Father Dugan pointed out that all men over 21 of sound mind who commit a felony are sent to Sing Sing if they live in the Metropolitan area, and to Attica if they reside upstate.

Pastor Turns Over Anniversary Gifts For Youth Center

A sum of $3,000 given to the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas F. Connors in anniversary gifts has been turned over by Monsignor Connors to the fund for the new Blessed Sacrament Youth Center. The Blessed Sacrament pastor announced his intention "to speed construction of the Youth Center with his own contribution in 'The Parish Weekly,' publication of the Oxford Street church. Approximately $3,000 was donated to him in golden jubilee remembrances at the time of his ordination anniversary celebration last June. Monsignor Connors said. He paid tribute to the generosity of the parishioners and friends and parish societies who had contributed to his anniversary. His construction of the new center will start next year.

Sends Bell To Heiligenkreuz

Pittsburgh — (NC) — Joseph Fandl, maitre d'hotel at the Duquesne Club, happened to know a man who owned an old locomotive. So a bell is ringing again atop the Catholic Church in Heiligenkreuz, Austria. Mr. Fandl, who is known widely here for his relief work, heard that the Austrian parish needed a bell, so he got in touch with C. M. Yoho, head of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad. The bell was salvaged from a coal-burned locomotive which had been consigned to the scrap heap.

McCurdy's
 presents for the first time in America
 14 model rooms designed for us by the decorating staffs of three of the nations leading magazines

Leading interior decorators from three of the country's most widely read home magazines have created for McCurdy's and you three separate homes to suit today's varied schemes of living. Every room reflects the authenticity and the professional know-how of these three famous magazines and their decorating staffs. McCurdy's invites you to "Hospitality Homes" . . . to see decorating at its best . . . to gather new ideas for your own home from this wealth of priceless professional talent.

McCurdy's expresses appreciation for

HOUSE AND GARDEN
 See this home of elegance with its high-fashion manners in McCurdy's presentation of "Hospitality Homes" and in full color in the August issue of House and Garden magazine. To plan this sophisticated group of rooms, McCurdy's went to Helen Kelly, Merchandising Editor of House and Garden. She in turn called on the decorating editors and merchandising staff who are all in constant contact with the nation's leading designers and manufacturers. The result is modern decorating at its best. These rooms . . . living room, dining room and master bedroom . . . that are dramatically new and real, with a promise of lasting satisfaction.

BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS
 Christine Holbrook, renowned Interior Decorating Editor for Better Homes and Gardens magazine journeyed from Des Moines, Iowa to Rochester to help create the home you've dreamed about, hoped for . . . to make this home come alive in McCurdy's "Hospitality Homes." Working in conjunction with McCurdy's own decorating staff, Miss Holbrook planned seven widely diversified rooms . . . rooms that are comfortable and inviting . . . destined to be family favorites. You'll see new fabrics, new furnishings, new ideas by the score . . . typical of Better Homes and Gardens' professional style, decorating more than three million readers look to every month.

THE AMERICAN HOME
 It was a lighthearted modern setting that James M. Wiley, famous Home Furnishings Editor of The American Home magazine, planned when he came from New York to formulate plans for a four-room apartment or a small house in McCurdy's "Hospitality Homes." Done with a dash of wit and dozens of delightfully fresh decorating ideas, he skillfully blends young modern with the warmth and old world charm of French provincial. Many professional tricks-of-the-trade are yours to see in the rooms designed by The American Home magazine . . . yours to use in your own home. It's the wonderfully versatile style of decorating that has made Mr. Wiley's work so popular with young-minded homemakers.
