

Austria Catholics Plan Central Setup

By DR. FRIEDRICH FUNDER
Vienna — Plans are under way to unify all Catholic groups in Austria in a central organization which will, in some respects, resemble the National Catholic Welfare Conference in the United States. By bringing about such a unification it will be possible to overcome, to a large extent, the obstacles caused by the division of Austria into four military occupation zones, which is impeding the natural harmonious development of Catholic Action.

THE GENERAL secretary of Catholic Action in the Archdiocese of Vienna has invited delegates of all Austria dioceses to attend a meeting which will be held later this month at the Benedictine Abbey of Lambach in Upper Austria. The decisions expected to be taken at this conference will be of the greatest significance for Catholic action in this country.

In the course of the past year, a number of moves have already been made tending in the direction of unifying Catholic Action efforts. Catholic publishers in Austria, including the well-known houses of Herder in Vienna, Styria in Graz, and Tyrolia in Innsbruck, have formed a general Austrian association which is affiliated with Catholic Action.

The Austrian Bishops have welcomed the establishment of a central Council of Catholic Women under the protectorate of Archbishop Andreas Rohrach of Salzburg, which includes the leaders and chaplains of women's organizations in all dioceses. Formation of similar central councils for organizations of Catholic men and of Catholic youth is also expected.

Chairman at the forthcoming conference will be Dr. Karl M. Stepan, general manager of the 80-year-old publishing house Styria in Graz. Dr. Stepan, who formerly headed the self-governing administration of the province of Styria and who spent many years in a Nazi concentration camp, has now withdrawn from political life to devote himself entirely to Catholic activities.

San Francisco Plans Mission Festival

San Francisco — (NC) — San Francisco Catholics are looking forward to the 24-day Portola Festival, beginning Oct. 2 at which the beginning of the Spanish mission system will be commemorated. More than a million visitors are expected.

The festival marks the discovery of San Francisco Bay by Don Gaspar de Portola in 1769. The period immediately after Portola's discovery marked the great years of mission work under Father Junipero Serra, who led his Spanish friars in forging a 21-mile "golden chain of faith" from San Diego to the northern reaches of the territory.

Victims Of War At School

School opens under handicaps for these war-maimed orphans at St. Michael's Orphanage, near Rome. With only stumps for hands, they are taught to use them by artificial means. The institution is one of hundreds supplied with relief materials by the Pontifical Assistance Commission and War Relief Services—National Catholic Welfare Conference. (NC Photos.)

Noted Scientist Received Into Church on Deathbed

Sante Fe — (NC) — A Mass of Requiem was offered in St. Francis Cathedral, here for Dr. Sylvanus Griswold Morley, director of the Museum of New Mexico and School of American Research and an internationally-known archeologist, who died Sept. 9 at the age of 65 years. Archbishop Edwin V. Byrne of Sante Fe, who received Dr. Morley into the Church in his last illness, was celebrant of the Mass and accompanied the body to the cemetery.

Dr. Morley many times had expressed to the Archbishop whose close friend he was, an ardent desire to "become a son of Holy Mother Church." The widely known figure in the field of historical research showed a child like faith and piety while a patient in St. Vincent Hospital and, following his baptism, told the Archbishop of his great desire and plans to advance the cause of Catholicism when he left the hospital. He never recovered from his illness.

A native of Chester, Pa. Dr. Morley was a graduate of the Pennsylvania Military College, which subsequently granted him an honorary doctorate and of Harvard University. He became best known for his archeological work in Middle America and specifically for his research into Mayan hieroglyphics. He did a great deal of rugged and dangerous field work in this country and in Middle America. One of his biggest undertakings was the direction of the Chichen Itza project under the auspices of the Carnegie Institution of Washington from 1924 to 1940. He was an associate in historical research of the Carnegie Institution. He excavated at the Cannonball ruin in Colorado and worked with the late Dr. Edgar L. Hewett at Puye and in the Rio de los Frijoles region.

He was the author of numerous books and scientific articles. His last book "The Ancient Maya," published in 1947, has been called the definitive work on this subject.

Pastoral Issued Publishers of In Hungary On Comics Launch Religious Study Self-censorship

Washington — (NC) — A pastoral by His Eminence Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, Primate of Hungary, addressed to the parents of school children, was read in all churches throughout the country on the eve of the beginning of the school year, according to a Vatican broadcast heard in this country.

THE PASTORAL called on parents to take upon themselves the task of giving their children religious education by teaching morals and by enrolling them in the principles of Christian Catholic youth organizations, according to the broadcast.

(Press reports from Hungary stated that the pastoral also branded the recently nationalized schools as materialistic, godless, and controlled by Marxist ideology and asserted that no genuine religious training could be expected from them.)

At the same time there is evidence from Hungarian broadcasts that heavy pressure is being put on Lutheran church leaders in Hungary to make the doctrines of that body conform to the requirements of the communist regime. Recent broadcasts show that the non-Marxist leaders in the Lutheran Church are buckling under the pressure.

IN PRESENTING a government-donated bell to the Lutheran church in Berlin some days ago, Hungarian Minister of Propaganda Ernest Mihalyfi demanded, according to a Hungarian broadcast, that the Lutheran Church "develop new forms which will fit the Church into the system of our People's Democracy and will establish a possibility for mutual work."

He declared that the attitude of "certain leaders" of the Lutheran Church is harmful "not only to that Church but to the nation as a whole" and insisted that these leaders "resign immediately and withdraw from Church affairs." "They cannot represent the democratic masses of the Lutheran Church," he charged. The minister requested "the speedy convocation of the Lutheran Synod" to effect the government-desired changes.

A later broadcast said all the leading laymen in the Lutheran Church have "tendered their resignation" and church affairs are now in the hands of two Lutheran bishops, whom the broadcast describes as "trusted by the broad masses belonging to the church."

Mrs. Truman Sponsor At Niece's Baptism

Denver — (NC) — Mrs. Harry S. Truman acted as honorary godmother in St. John the Evangelist Church, here, when her newly-born niece, Charlotte Margaret Wallace, was baptized by the Rev. John P. Moran. The father is David F. Wallace, Mrs. Truman's brother and a convert. Archbishop Urban J. Vehr of Denver granted permission for the First Lady, a non-Catholic, to act as honorary sponsor.

New York — (RNS) — Fourteen publishers who have subscribed to the new code of ethics formulated by the Association of Comic Magazine Publishers, Inc., have been notified to submit copies of all their publications for review, it was announced here.

Phil Keenan, association president, said the group's seal, indicating compliance with the code, would appear on all participating publications as soon as possible. The code, made public in July, provides for self-regulation on sex, crime, divorce and racial and religious problems.

KEENAN SAID that Henry E. Schultz, executive director of the association, had been appointed to supervise the inspection of the comics. "This is a first step only," Keenan explained. "After a thorough survey of all publications now issued an appraisal will be made under Mr. Schultz's direction and consultations with publishers will be held."

Schultz, meanwhile, announced he would appoint an advisory group to help him establish standards. In this connection he said he was working with a group of educational leaders.

Phoenix, Ariz. — (RNS) — Churchmen and lay groups here have expressed support of the action of the Maricopa County Druggists Association in banning certain comics from newsstands. Falling under the association ban are comics which present communistic propaganda, racial prejudice, brutal killings and the like. According to Newell Stewart, association president, about 440 comic publications will be affected.

The association said merchants had complained that they were compelled to handle such comics in order to get other magazines. In some instances, it was said, druggists who turned down objectionable comics found their supply of other popular magazines cut in half.

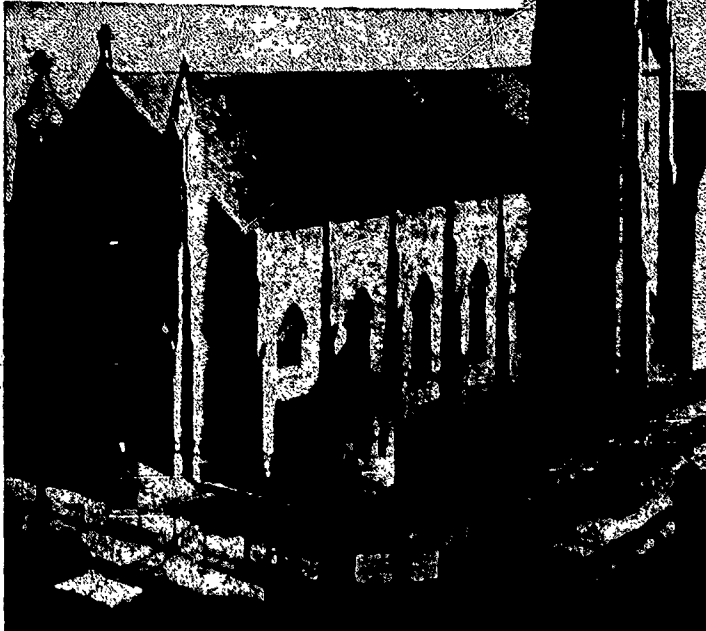

Irish Give Meat To Europe Jews

Dublin — (RNS) — A team of Orthodox Jewish slaughterers, supervised by two rabbis, is expected to arrive here shortly from Paris to prepare 1,000,000 pounds of meat which is to be sent as a gift from the Irish people to needy Jews throughout Europe.

The gift, proposed when the de Valera government was in power, was held up by a shortage of tin. This difficulty has been overcome, however, by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee which has made sufficient tin available to pack 3,000,000 pounds of meat.

After the first million pounds has been prepared in kosher form, the remainder of the meat will be distributed in Europe by the International Red Cross.

Week-Long Rites Mark Hundredth Anniversary Of Cleveland Diocese

Week-long ceremonies marked the 100th anniversary of the Cleveland Diocese and the consecration of the newly rebuilt 100-year-old Cathedral of St. John, pictured above. His Excellency Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, officiated at the Pontifical Mass of Thanksgiving. His Eminence Edward Cardinal Mooney, Archbishop of Detroit, and many prominent clergy and laity participated. (NC Photo.)

HNS Plans For International Organization

New York — (RNS) — Units of the Holy Name Society in English-speaking areas of the world will be coordinated into an international organization, according to plans announced here by the Very Rev. Harry C. Graham, O.P., national director of the group in this country.

FATHER GRAHAM said there were 3,000,000 or more English-speaking members of the Society and that the new international organization would add more than 1,000,000 to the total.

He said the plans include organizing new units in parishes and coordinating these and existing groups into diocesan and archdiocesan units. At the same time, a national Society is planned in Canada and will be part of the new set-up.

Countries in which units of the Society eventually would be part of the international organization include New Zealand, Australia, Jamaica, Trinidad, China and Okinawa.

The Holy Name Society in the United States was founded in 1898 "to begot our eyes and reverence for the Holy Name of God and Jesus Christ; and to suppress blasphemy, perjury, oaths of any character that are forbidden, profanity, unlawful swearing and improper language; and as far as members can, to prevent these vices in others." It claims a membership of 2,500,000 persons.
