PREMIER SEES IRELAND UNITY

New York—(NC) Ireland is determined that partition will be undone in our time and striving for this objective she seeks the cooperation of all people of good will "like the friendly people of the United States," Premier John A. Costello of Ireland declared here when welcomed officially to the United States.

The welcome was extended by New York's Irish-born Mayor William O'Dwyer in a ceremony witnessed by some 200 persons at the Mayor's reception rooms for the city's golden jubilee exposition in Grand Central Palace.

AFTER THE reception, reporters asked Mr. Costello to clarify what he meant by the cooperation of the American people. "Do you mean political cooperation?" he was asked. The Irish Premier replied: "Do you have to spell everything out?"

Mr. Costello came to this country enroute to Canada, where he will be the guest of the Canadian Bar Association, but will return to the United States in late September. It is his first visit to America.

The Premier expressed the abundant gratitude of Ireland for aid which has been extended not only in the present crisis, but over a period of many years by the United States. He praised the help that this country has given to western Europe through the European Recovery Program. He added that Ireland has tried to help the starving of Europe, but the nation's present economic condition has prevented this action.

"IRELAND is no longer a land of sorrows," Mr. Costello asserted. "The destiny of Ireland is in our hands and I believe that within a few years we will bring about prosperity, a modest prosperity—a kind suited to a small country like ours. We have one political objective that has not yet been achieved. Six of the northeast counties are still withheld from us. We are determined that partition will be undone in our time. . . . We hope that in a short time Ireland will be free from north to south and from shore to shore."

The family is pictured with the wife of the oldest boy and the grandaunt of the children. One set of twins was born to the family.

Eire, England Debate Bestseller

London—(NC) — British literary circles and Catholic editorial writers this week argued the decision recently made by Eire to ban from the country the best-seller, "The Heart of the Matter," by Graham Greene, Catholic novelist.

In the official newspaper of the Southmark Diocese, Auxiliary Bishop William F. Brown of Southmark, commented: "People are asking can there be two standards of Catholic morality, or is it that the Eire censors are impossible people? To me it seems vital the situation should be cleared up."

"Young people, older too, are disposed to make out extenuating circumstances lessening the guilt of sins of sex. The book seems to me to encourage such views. But adultery is adultery whatever attempts may be made to disguise it by not using the hard word."

"No doubt many could read it without it making much impression on them, but there will be others on whom it will act as a bad book."

"There is also a painful want of reticence about things which modesty teaches should not be mentioned."

Journalism Society Mainz, Germany — (RNS) — Formation of a German Catholic Journalism Society was announced here. All Catholic journalists, radio men and publishers are eligible for membership in the new group.

Prison Apostle

Japan Priest Converts Men Sentenced to the Scaffold

Kyoto, Japan—(RNS)—Father John Ueda, young Japanese priest now assigned to the Prefecture Apostolic of Kyoto, has probably seen more of his converts hanged than any Roman Catholic priest in the world.

Sent to minister to Japanese war criminals who had been captured and imprisoned in the Philippines, Father Ueda baptized 19 of them before they were executed. Several other converts are now in Sugamo prison, having been returned to Tokyo to await a final decision as to their fate.

FATHER UEDA was still a seminarian when he was first drafted into the Imperial army. He served in China for a long time before he was able to get back to Japan and the seminary. Seventeen Japanese war criminals had been executed before Father Ueda began his prison apostolate, but aside from three Philippines. The Japanese army, who had previously been baptized priest as such, assigned him to a machine gun platoon. He was captured and made a prisoner-of-war.

AMERICAN CHAPLAINS, fortunately, soon discovered that there was a man named Ueda who had long been sought for a long list of war crimes.

Sgt. Ueda and Father Ueda were two different persons. After establishing his identity as a priest, they were instrumental in getting him sufficient liberty to continue his ministry in prison.

Seventeen Japanese war criminals had been executed before Father Ueda began his prison apostolate, but aside from three Philippines. The Japanese army, who had previously been baptized priest as such, assigned him to a machine gun platoon. He was captured and made a prisoner-of-war.

Perhaps the most striking part of Father Ueda's story is the fact that the notorious Sgt. Ueda was subsequently captured thus clearing the priest to the satisfaction of all concerned — and received instruction in the Catholic faith from his namesake. And when Sgt. Ueda went to his execution, it was Father Ueda who accompanied him and who anointed him in his final agony.
