At Our House Breaks a Habit

By MARY TINLEY DALY

Ever try to break a lifetime habit? Not easy, is it? But that's the task Virginia—"Stretch"—to her family has set herself. Even when a lifetime is only three years and ten days long, it's hard.

Stretch is trying to stop sucking her thumb—a habit she tried to break when she was a small baby with the usual "stiff arms," "stiff arms," "stiff arms."

THE FIRST WE heard of the new resolution was on Stretch's third birthday when she went upstairs to take her nap.

Teen Talks Post-Game Spotlight

By NORMA DE PREZ

OUR POST-GAME pranks not only let Mr. Peace Loving Citizens down but they also seriously affect our school.

THE SPOTLIGHT is on youth and on you. Perhaps you are one of the many who can answer "not gully" to any of these violations of good manners.

Women's Viewpoint No Technicolor Diet

By MARIE WEIDMAN

The activities of the Elect atop the technicolor Olympus that is Hollywood are deemed vital enough to keep four hundred fifty-one accredited newspaper correspondents each within a comfortable quota of suede shoes and swimming pools.

THE REAL ARBITERS of Hollywood life, though, appear to be the grumose twosome of dear Louella and happy Heddah.
