Aquinas Grid Record Draws Bishop's Praise At Annual Victory Dinner

"We are proud of our Aquinas boys and their school and their football record." His Excellency best evidence of the traditional Christian training that the finest audience of 1,200 banquet guests at Wednesday night's Aquinas Victory Dinner at the Rochester Chamber of Commerce, sacrificed for the good of the team.

The Aquinas grid squad, honored for an undefeated season of seven victories and one tie, heard their prowess praised by a long list of speakers, including Mayor Samuel B. Dickon, priests of the Aquinas faculty, Coach Harry Wright and a dozen visiting college coaches and representatives of Catholic schools of the East.

Replying to public criticisms of the Bishop as principal speaker declared that the banquet turnout was "a vote of public approbation" for the players and their school.

town's director of athletics, and Tom Murphy, Fordham's director of publicity.

The Army and Navy were represented by Jerry Flynn, Aquinas graduate recently resigned as publicity director of the U. S. Naval Academy, and Major Thomas E. Masereau, graduate manager of West Point athletics. Frank Legan, tackle, received the annual award for "the most improved player." Ray Rigney, end, was awarded the Times-Union Award and Vince De Gasperi, guard, accepted the "Ironman award" for playing 271 minutes during the season. Thomas Seaman, a guard, was voted by the players and coaching staff as the most valuable player of the year.

Winners of monograms were Alfred Amico, Cyril Krenner, James Ging, Charles Hilbert.

Among the evening's announcements was a pledge from the Rev. Wilfrid Kehoe, C.S.B., that the whole football squad would be the school's guest on a three-day vacation in New York City after Christmas and assurances from the Rev. Hugh Haffey, C.S.B., moderator of the Aquinas Men's Club who sponsored the banquet, that the new Aquinas stadium would be finished by August 15, 1949 by a New York City contracting company.

Child Reading Talk Heard at Leicester

Leicester Changing Tastes in "Children's Reading" was discussed by Miss Clara Scully of Genesee before 29 members of the Rosary Society of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, meeting Nov. 30 at Leicester Casino. Miss Scully explained how children's choice of books has changed down through the centuries. Because of many varied activities, children now prefer books that can be easily and quickly read. Little children, she said, enjoy books with bright pictures best and those having a top; with which they are acquainted.

The current problem of comic books was discussed and one comic book that meets with approval for children's reading was on display. Miss Scully also showed copies of books that circulate most freely in the school library.

Mrs. James Pendergast was chairman of a committee that served refreshments after the program.
