At Our House Spring Cleaning Made Easy

Spring cleaning at our house was late this year—late but satisfying. The lateness is explained by an alumnae group of 18 that met here in March—and of course the house had to be shining when they arrived.

It was but only on the surface...
ON MARKIE'S bed went the pile marked T.B.F. To be fixed—outgrown clothing to be revamped for another member of the family. On Pat's bed went the T.B.M. To be De-Mothed and put away for next winter. Eileen's held the U.H. Utterly Hopeless like the pair of pants descended either seat or knees, and the rubber bathing cap with a big split in it.

Teen Talks Hands Across The Sea

Even in good weather, it rains in London. A Londoner, however, will be quick to reassure you that one gets accustomed to it and as he puts up his umbrella (standard equipment), the soles of your shoes are getting soggy, your hair is drooping beyond the help of a Toi—for a three guinea perm), and you proceed to wring this habitual habit out of your coat sleeves. You don't have to be amphibious to live in England but it helps.
