Bp. Kearney Lauds Loyalty At St. John Fisher Ceremony

(Continued from Page 1) The people of Rochester, the citizens of communities in the diocese, city, county and state officials; the press, radio and industry in the whole area have been deeply generous. We make this pledge now, that nothing will ever be said or done that will cause them not to be proud of St. John Fisher College.

Included in the Bishop's remarks was a warning against "too much encroachment of the state in education as 'not good and certainly not consistent with the tradition of our country.'"

He said that "in recent times efforts have been made by the state to get into the field of higher education and there is a tendency now to discredit the private college."

Bishop Kearney also stressed that Catholic schools are responsible for a tremendous saving to the taxpayers. He pointed out that the Catholic schools of the Rochester Diocese "in the last year have saved taxpayers over 4 million dollars and that is computed on state figures which allow $10 a year for each child in school."

"We have undertaken the education of 20,000 children and that means $400,000 which the state is not burdened," he said.

The Rev. Hugh B. Hatley, C.S.B., executive director of the ceremony, presided at the ceremony conducted on the future college site at East Avenue and Fairport Road.

CHARLES MAGINNIS of the Boston architect firm which has planned the college told the assembly that "St. John Fisher College shall take its place architecturally among the collegiate masterpieces of America."

Among those present were: The Rt. Rev. Mgr. William M. Hart, V.G., P.A.; the Very Rev. Hubert Coughlin of Toronto, the vicar-general of the Basilian Fathers; the Rev. Vincent Kennedy, president of the Institute of Medieval Studies, Toronto; Representative Kenneth B. Keating; the Rev. W. J. Duggan, C.S.B., Aquinas Institute principal; Rev. Dr. Charles J. Mahoney, diocesan superintendent of schools; the Very Rev. Mgr. John S. Randall, a director of the college fund drive; former State Senator Rodney E. Jones, Vicemayor Frank E. VanLara, Sheriff Albert W. Skinner, Assemblyman A. Gould Hatch, and Roy F. Bush, courtesy Democratic leader.

Honored

Deputy Chief of U. S. Army Chaplains Rev. James H. O'Neill has been named a domestic prelate by His Holiness Pope Pius XII with the title Right Reverend Monsignor. Monsignor O'Neill, who is of the Helena, Montana diocese, has been in the army since 1925 and was a captain with General Patton's Third Army in the late war.

On Guard

(Continued from Page 1) that letters be sent to congressmen urging immediate passage of the Barden Bill. It is easy to see why the professional educators of the NEA want the Barden Bill. It would establish the tax-supported public school as a monopoly in the field of education and place lush funds at the exclusive disposal of public school authorities.

The vicious feature of the Barden Bill, as Cardinal Spellman and other Catholic critics point out, is that it includes Catholic school children for the purpose of receiving funds from the Federal Government but excludes these same children from the distribution and benefits of the funds allocated in their name.

THE BARDEN BILL directs that under no circumstances would non-public school children receive the health benefits and transportation services provided for their companions attending public schools.

The philosophy of the Barden Bill definitely brands any American child exercising its constitutional and God-given right of seeking a religious education or of choosing its own school as an outcast within the country of its birth.

Congressman Barden's Bill is freighted with rank discrimination and injustice and it carries the hopes of the NEA. It also carries the hopes of the Protestants and Other Americans United, an organization distinguished for little except its violent anti-Catholic prejudices.

Methodist Bishop Bromley Oxnam, that self-appointed watchdog against an imaginary Catholic plot to seize control of the United States, is also among the prominent disciples of discrimination advocating passage of the Barden Bill.

THIS ARRAY OF strange forces behind the Barden Bill, the NEA, Protestants United and Bishop Oxnam, to name a few, may be only accidental but Catholics will find it difficult to disabuse themselves of the suspicion that they are under siege from the forces of organized bigotry.

And American Catholics should not surrender by default to the forces of bigotry now working to stigmatize in law as un-American our parochial school children and all children who attend non-public schools. Catholics are just as capable of writing to their Congressmen and senators as are the members of the NEA and the Protestants United, and they should do so.

Let Catholics assure our congressmen that we are American enough to want to see the American tradition of freedom of education preserved not only for Catholic children but for all American children.

To put it bluntly, Congressmen may not like our stand but they do like our votes—particularly when November comes around. We are in a fight for freedom, not a friendly bridge game.

English Bishops Hit School Cost

London — (RNS) — Several Roman Catholic Bishops have complained that alterations and extensions of Catholic schools necessitated by the 1944 Education Act will cost more than four times the amount estimated by government spokesmen at the time the law was passed.

According to the Bishops, the school changes will cost over 40 million pounds ($160,000,000) rather than the 10 million pounds ($40,000,000) anticipated by Education Ministry officials.

A new educational battle over the issue was predicted by Bishop Edward Ellis of Nottingham, who urged Catholics "not to be fobbed off this time by so-called sympathetic hearings and soft, evasive speeches."

Catholic officials attributed the problem to the huge rise of building costs and the increasing demands for higher building standards.
