Red Wings Head Heard By 300 At St. Stanislaus

"No matter what your vocation, it takes talent and persistence to make the grade," Johnny Keane, manager of the Red Wings baseball team, told approximately 300 listeners at the first annual Fathers and Sons Breakfast of the St. Stanislaus Holy Name Society Sunday.

Keane, principal speaker, pointed out that in his opinion the reason the Wings are not currently higher in the league standings is "lack of control on the part of our pitchers." They have issued too many bases on balls, he said. If this situation can be righted, he indicated, the team should end in the first division.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE Holy Name Society on its success since its reorganization two years ago were extended by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Balcerek, pastor, who welcomed the fathers and sons. The Rev. Henry F. Adamak, assistant pastor and spiritual director, urged the men to continue their support of Holy Name activities.

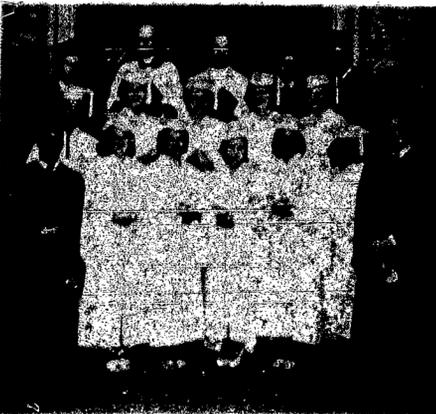

Other speakers included Arthur P. Farren, executive secretary of the Diocesan Holy Name Union, who called on the men as American citizens to register their reaction to the Hadden Bill on federal aid to schools, and Joseph Klein of the Bishop's Lay Committee on Scouting, who asked the men to assist the formation of a parish Scout Troop in the fall.

Manager Keane presented autographed baseballs and a bat and gave an award to some of the "Millions of Smiles" winners. Walter Casalak was toastmaster. Co-chairmen of the breakfast committee were Henry Kubjak and Walter Macikowski Jr.

Serving the breakfast were members of a new parish group organized in May under the direction of Father Adamak. The Holy Name of Mary Society. Officers include Miss Veronica Wroblewski, president; Mrs. Irene Cudde, vice-president; Mrs. Josephine Chalk, secretary, and Mrs. Anne Janock, treasurer.
