to be home" was evident as he walked about the structure pointing out the rooms where the chapel will be, the vestry, the dormitories, and so on — with the attitude that this was more interesting than talking about Europe.

The Monsignor and the Rev. Dr. John M. Maney, secretary to Bishop Kearney, accompanied the Monsignor on his "ad hoc" visit to Rome, leaving New York on Apr. 28. The Monsignor returned May 24, while the Monsignor and Dr. Maney remained in Rome for a brief vacation.

Throughout the trip they parted Sunday when Dr. Maney stopped in Albany to visit his mother. He returned to Rochester Monday.

MOST APPRECIATIVE of his audience with the Pope, the Monsignor said the Holy See appeared "so cheerful" in his many problems, and asked him to convey the Pope's blessing to the seminarians. The Pope appeared "less fearful of Communism in the West than in the East," Monsignor Lyons recalled.

Opinion to the contrary, he

Catholic Named To India Cabinet Post

Rome (AP) — First Roman Catholic to hold a cabinet post in independent India is J. L. P. Roche, Victoria, Madras business man who has been named Minister of Food and Fisheries. A member of the Madras Legislative Assembly since 1937, he won his seat on the Provincial Legislative Council in 1946 on the Congress ticket.

Minister Roche, who is also a member of the Advisory Committee of the Constituent Assembly.

St. Margaret Mary's new church, slowly rising on Rogers Parkway, in Tonawanda, Rochester suburb, will soon be one of the largest in the diocese with seats for 1,200 people. The half-finished walls are buff tapestry brick faced on the interior with special grey stone. Special features of the decoration will be 14 stained-glass windows honoring the Apostles, and a giant rose-window over the choir. The new rectory (right) will be completed by Sept. 1, but material shortages may delay the church's completion until after Jan. 1.

Two Catholic 'Camps' in Heart of City Have Active Program for 325 Children

By MARY M. CAREY

Keeping more than 300 children happy and out of mischief these vacation days is the full-time occupation of the group of hardy young people who give up their own summer holidays to direct the day-camp programs at Rochester's two Catholic settlement houses, the Genesee and the Charles.

Handling nearly double the enrollments of last year, the 30 workers of these two Red-Feather agencies do their daily stint at a pace few parents could stand.

THE BIGGER camp at Genesee Settlement House, 10 Duke Street, requires perpetual motion in its 10 people to fill the recreation needs of the 200 youngsters it manages daily. Charles Settlement House, corner Jay and Saxton Streets, keeps 9 workers constantly on the go with 125 little charges in tow.

A day's schedule gets underway around 9 a.m. with assembly and pledge to the flag. After a brief session with Catholic doctrine, the younger kids, aged 5 to 9, take off with their leaders for the day's destination.

Members of the older groups, 9 to 12, go to Columbus Clivic Center pool twice a week, boys on Monday and Wednesday, girls on Tuesday and Thursday — where Stan Murray, physical director of the Columbus Youth Association, and his staff teach them to be expert swimmers.

OTHER DAYS they construct lessons in useful and constructive craft work and nature lore. The little youngsters learn a more simplified craft when they aren't out doing the city parks and playgrounds, or picnicking at Charlotte.

Baseball, handball, and active sports form an integral part of the day-camp routine, and the kids go outdoors rain or shine for some sort of healthy, well-supervised recreation. All the groups report back to the settlement house around 4:30 to be accounted for before they go to their homes.

THIS ALL adds up to particular headaches for the two experienced young women who head the settlement house staffs, Mary F. Hannick of Genesee House and Ruth Ehmman of Charles House.

Maryknoll Opens Movie Company

New York (AP) — A new organization has been formed here to produce and distribute 16-millimeter sound movies for use by Catholic parish organizations. Entitled World Horizon Films, it is headed by the Rev. Albert J. Nevins, M.M., of Maryknoll, N. Y.; Kenneth Cofod, formerly of the March of Time, is production manager.

The firm has two pictures now ready for release — "The Miracle of Blue Cloud County" and "The Kid Down the Block." A third, "Kyoto Saturday Afternoon" will be ready in September, and others are now being made in Japan.

All are designed to make the missions and the work of the Maryknoll Fathers better known to American Catholics. "The Miracle of Blue Cloud County" has been used on television.

Priest-Editor Goes North
Seattle, Wash. (AP) — The Rev. Andrew M. Prouty, editor of The Catholic Northwest Progress, newspaper of the Seattle diocese, is one of two newspaper correspondents accompanying the Navy's Baret-49 expedition which has left here to resupply installations in the Arctic.

While in Vatican City, he ordered a five-foot-high mosaic, to depict Our Mother of Good Counsel, which will hang behind the altar in the new seminary building when it opens in September next year.

Among other souvenirs he displayed a piece of the veil worn by St. Bernadette when she was a nun, a wood-carved statue of St. Andrew obtained in Amalfi, Italy, where the saint is buried, and several rosaries personally blessed by the Pope.

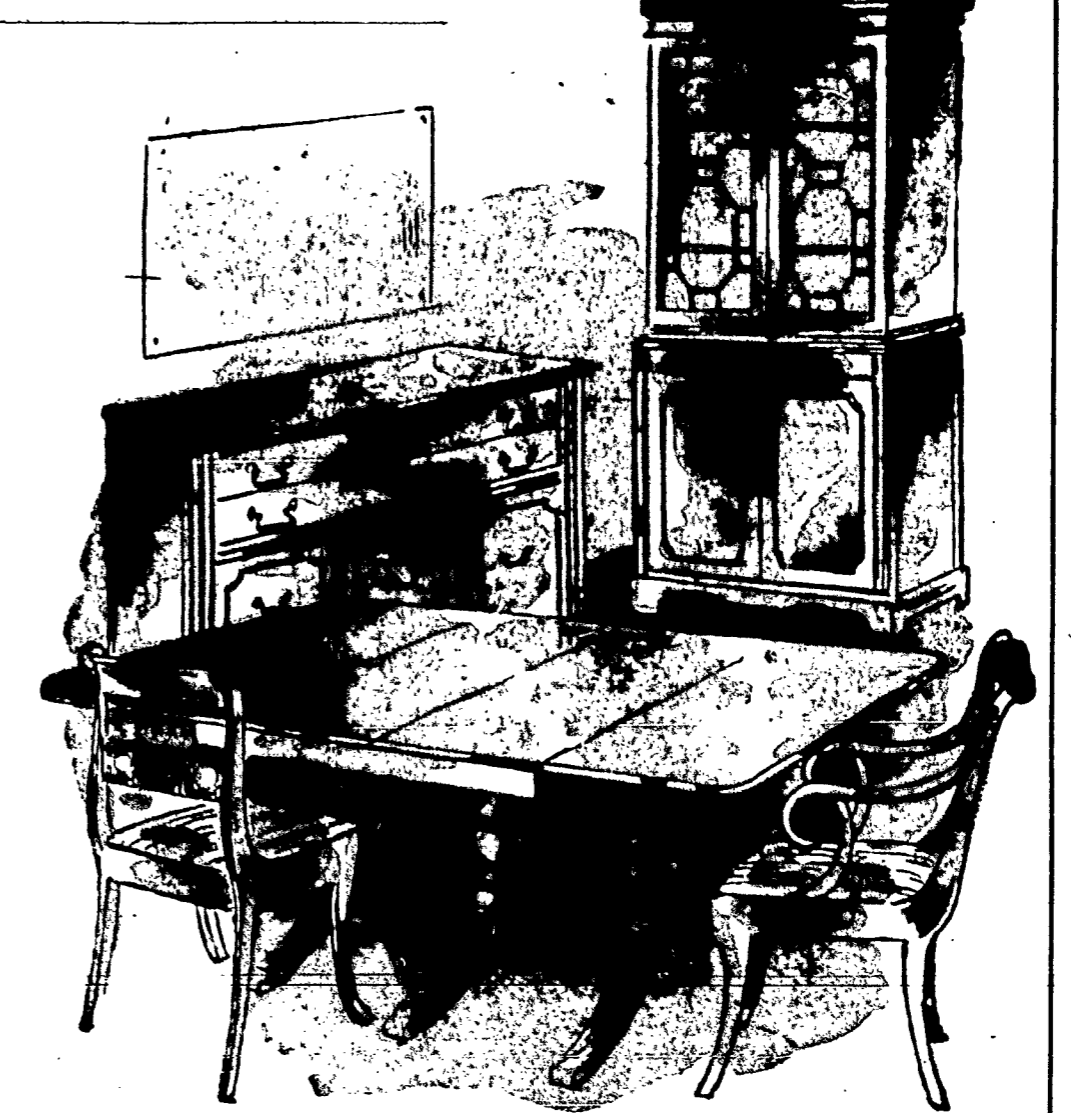

Significant of Europe's difficulties, he commented, was a chance remark by a Britisher in an Italian restaurant: "Look at this food. We English were on the victorious side in the war — and Italy was beaten. Yet they have more food today than we."

ASKED if he had kissed the Blarney Stone, Monsignor Lyons admitted he "was talked into doing so by an old Irisher" who urged: "I don't know how good you are in the pulpit, Father, but after you kiss this stone you'll be a lot better!"

Confessing recurrent homesickness, the Monsignor said he was deeply touched by a telegram he received from the senior graduates of St. Andrew's — the first commencement he has missed in his 20 years at the seminary — and by the subsequent arrival of "The Sator," student publication containing news of the graduation.

"It was a nice trip," he concluded. "I am indebted to the Bishop for being allowed to make it — but I'm surely glad to be home."
