St. Bona Grads Hear Talk On Social Justice

St. Bonaventure, N. Y. - Attracting those who are striving to maintain the status quo in America Dr. Egon Jaeger, professor of sociology at Siena College, gave a talk on "practical social justice for all" and "security for society as a whole."

The 43-year-old Viennese born educator delivered the baccalaureate address at the summer commencement Sunday, August 7, of St. Bonaventure College, which conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Seventy-nine graduate and undergraduate students also received degrees in ceremonies presided over by Rev. Msgr. James M. Powers of Erie Pa.

Two other doctorates were conferred, one on Msgr. Powers, Doctor of Laws, and another Doctor of Letters, on Mother M. Ignace Hollus of the Netherlands, Superior General of the Sisters of St. Francis of Penance and Christian Charity.

"WE MUST SEE to it that measures are enacted to make social justice practical, and to bring security to the multi-industrial night of America must serve the multitudes. Business must develop a social consciousness and be aware of its community responsibilities. We must rid ourselves of our race prejudice and we must care for the needy."

In a society where justice and charity prevail, communism as a political or economic force is not a threat the Siena professor said. He condemned those who hold that depression and mass unemployment are "Acts of God."

"They are produced by us in our inhuman economic practices," he asserted, adding "If men can create depressions, then men can avoid depressions through economic daring and bold statesmanship."

He pointed out that America must take an active part in the reconstruction of the world.

"EVERYTHING WE do here in America will have repercussions elsewhere," he contended. "It is our national responsibility to be international in outlook."

The idea that a democracy can be strong and still remain free is being born in our world. Democracy can and must assume the responsibility for creating social security an economic opportunity. Freedom for the multitudes is important. We must help to bring that about."

Sunday's sermon was marked by the first public appearance of Very Rev. Juvenal Lalo, O.F.M., of St. Bonaventure's new presiding.

French Honor Our Lady In Diocesan Celebrations

Paris-(NC)-The summer of 1949 has been marked in the French dioceses by many public celebrations in honor of Our Lady. This is in conformity with the recommendation of the Assembly of French Cardinals and Archbishops that this year be dedicated to the blessed Virgin as the best way of preparing for the Holy Year of 1950.

A MARIAN CONGRESS has just been held at Blois to consecrate a new basilica built by the Capuchins in honor of Our Lady of the Trinity. The basilica, built in a modernistic style, is situated on a hilltop overlooking the valley of the Loire river. One of the most striking features of the new basilica is its carillon tower, which contains 48 bells and is one of Europe's finest.

AT THE SANCTUARY OF Notre Dame de Liesse in the diocese of Solsons, 80,000 pilgrims gathered to atone for the sacrilege committed there last year when two thieves stole the crown of precious jewels that had been presented to the statue of the Madonna by the city of St. Quentin in 1857.

A magnificent new crown, paid for in large part by contributions from prisoners, was placed on the Virgin's head by Archbishop Marmottin. This recalled the origin of the pilgrim to Notre Dame de Liesse. The sanctuary's first statue was brought by French crusaders who had escaped from Mohammedian prisons.

Another impressive ceremony had taken place a few days earlier in Lille where, in honor of Notre Dame de la Treille, patroness of the city, a huge procession was held in which pilgrims from all parts of northern France carried 72 statues of the blessed Virgin. The mayor of Lille and the municipal councils of many nearby towns were in the procession.
