Nun's Turkey Went Quietly Construction Of College Scheduled Next Spring

Calcutta, India—(NC)—Sister Maria Kieran of the Maryknoll convent there had told the house girl, Basia, to kill the Thanksgiving turkey. But soft-hearted Basia cried at the thought of harming such a beautiful bird, and refused. Sister insisted there would be no dinner without turkey.

Basia finally thought of a solution. She disappeared and returned with a glass of strong wine. "I'll get him drunk first, and he won't know what's happening," she explained. After dinner, all the Sisters tasted that Basia's turkey had made an especially tasty Thanksgiving meal.

Boston—(RNS)—Five former Massachusetts governors issued a joint statement here expressing opposition to an initiative petition which seeks the repeal of a 1938 state law providing for the transportation of private and parochial school children at public expense.

Filed with the attorney general here in July by fifteen Protestant clergymen of Greater Boston, the petition is a preliminary legal step towards giving Massachusetts voters the right to decide the question. Sponsors of the petition must obtain 20,000 signatures by Dec. 7 to have the proposal placed before the 1950 legislature session. If rejected by the legislature, 5,000 more signatures must be obtained to put the issue before the voters at the 1950 election.

Former governors who signed the joint statement were U. S. Senator Leverett Saltonstall, Robert F. Bradford, Frank G. Allen, Channing H. Cox and Alvan T. Fuller, all Republicans.

"THE PRINCIPLE of the present law," the statement said, "has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court which ruled that it does not bear upon the subject of separation between Church and State."

"The present law was enacted to make education easier for the individual child and to protect the child from accidents in getting to and from school."

The five former governors said they hoped the petition would be dropped in the interest of keeping religion out of politics.

SCHOOL BUS BAN RESCINDED

Albany, N. Y.—(RNS)—An order by the New York State Department of Education has rescinded action taken by the board of education of School District No. 1 of Claverack, N. Y., suspending school bus transportation for pupils of St. Mary's parochial school, in nearby Hudson.

The Claverack board cancelled previous provisions for parochial students at a meeting July 12 over the protests of the Very Rev. John A. McCarthy, pastor of St. Mary's parish.

Two citizens, John Schemella and John Burke, appealed the action to the state department.

The department's directive ordered the board to "provide transportation for pupils residing within the district to the nearest parochial school, and pay the cost thereof out of any funds of the district available for such purpose."

Rome Visit 'Like Coming Home', Mrs. Luce Tells Father Sullivan

Rome—(By Airmail)—Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, the American writer who became a Catholic, has visited Rome several times before. But this, her first visit to the Eternal City since she entered the Church was altogether different. It was like "coming home" to the place where she knew she belonged. MRS. LUCE frankly admitted that during her previous visits to Europe, Rome was the city she liked least among the capitals of the Old World. But this time, Mrs. Luce told this correspondent, the previously confined, picture of Rome almost miraculously changed to one of brilliant order. "Now, Rome makes sense to me," she said. "I feel that I am part of it." This time, the ancient churches of Rome were far more than historical monuments. They were places where the Christian way had been lived.

The school, scheduled to open in September, 1950, will teach kindergarten classes, as well as the first eight grades. While conforming to state regulations, the curriculum will include religious instruction. Children of any de-

After flying all night, Mrs. Luce arrived here at seven in the morning and went from the airport straight to the Church of San Claudio, at the Piazza San Silvestro, for Mass and Holy Communion. IN HER OWN thinking and speaking over the world's present

Cornerstone Rites Herald New St. Andrew's Building

A Stone from St. Andrew's Cathedral for Rochester, England, whose Bishop St. John Fisher once celebrated Mass, was laid in the cornerstone of Rochester's new St. Andrew's Seminary at seven o'clock yesterday. Bishop Kearney is shown here with Bishop Kearney who officiated.

Million Dollar Plant Readied For Seminary 'Born in Stable'

A silver trowel expertly wielded by His Excellency Bishop Kearney, solemnly sealed the diocese's hopes for its future priests in the cornerstone of the million-dollar St. Andrew's Seminary now rising on the Buffalo Road.

The new St. Andrew's Seminary, which will be a modern stable at the foot of the Buffalo Road, is the latest of Bishop Kearney's plans for the diocese. The seminary will be a million-dollar plant, readied for the arrival of the first students in the fall of 1951. The building is a masterpiece of modern architecture, designed by the architect, John H. Johnson. The cornerstone was laid yesterday at seven o'clock, with Bishop Kearney officiating. The ceremony was attended by a large number of clergy and laymen. Bishop Kearney, in his address, stressed the importance of the seminary as a place where young men are trained for the priesthood. He said that the seminary would be a place where the young men would be able to study and pray in a peaceful and orderly environment. He also mentioned the importance of the seminary in the diocese's future. The building is a million-dollar plant, readied for the arrival of the first students in the fall of 1951.

MRS. CLARE LUCE... Mrs. Luce said she had come to summarize and symbolize all the problems and their answers in three key words: Mass, Mother and Machine. The full understanding and proper use of all that is embodied in these three words, she explained, should go a long way toward the realization of an orderly and peaceful world.
