Charity is of God, Seldom of Groceries

By MARY FITZGERALD

It is so seldom a grocery order for which they are asking, because you see "Charity is of God". Only one unit of every 25 applications for service or consultation needs material assistance when they come to Catholic Charities. If problems are predominantly economical, we do help but usually in these days of publicized Welfare, the ones that seek Catholic Charities are asking for more than a requisition for groceries or coal.

Truly, it has been said that in order to form a philosophy of life, one must see it as a unit, as an individed whole. And so, it might be rightfully concluded, that in order to form an understanding of Elmira Catholic Charities, its diversified program, its policies, its success, one must see it also in its entirety—an undivided unit, functioning smoothly and effectively in its many parts for the good of our Community.

It is because we want you to know more about our unseen services, that we will try in a swift pantomime of words to briefly outline our program for you. Incomplete—it must be—because new problems are constantly arising to challenge us and new services and functions must be devised and assumed to cope with these human difficulties.

Regardless however, of our utilization of the newest methods and the latest techniques in professional social case work, we will never forget the fundamental reasons for organized Catholic Charity—namely to labor for Him first and then for our neighbor.

WHO COMES? One can never tell when or where trouble will strike—it may be your friend or mine. Men and women like ourselves, with perhaps some of the very human tangles, with which you are struggling, but who do not have within themselves, the necessary resources to find the answers, which mean so much to them.

How do they come? Who refers them to us? Troubled and confused people from every walk of life are sent to us by the Clergy, the schools, physicians, the courts, attorneys, employers and by others, who have found the solution of some of their day by day conundrums through the kindly understanding of a Catholic Charities Worker.

Often of course, these friends of ours have learned about the Christlike confidentially of a consultation with Catholic Charities, through a newspaper story, a radio program or a Red Feather Bulletin. They know that they will not be labeled as a Charity Case—that they will have the full protection of a private interview, often after hours, when the office is closed to everyone else.

WHY DO THEY COME? The most of them are brought to us because of worry about themselves or about the ones they love or did love. It may be family entanglements, unmanageble children or elderly relatives.

Again, a marriage is headed for failure, a wife is unable to manage on a meagre budget, a son is rebelling against the restrictions of parental guidance, a daughter is "running with" a fast crowd, or anyone of the numerous left overs from the sin of our first parents.

Worry and confusion make people unhappy—crosses are not easy to bear, especially if hearts are rebellious because of a lack of understanding. But what can be done about it? Holy Mother Church has never been able to interpret God's will to all of her followers—how can Social Work do more than she has been able to accomplish?

That is to be told! Shall we leave this "swift pantomime of words" with you as an introduction to the Catholic Charities of Elmira. In these critical years, in which, we are living, there has come to us in America and especially to those who have consecrated themselves to Catholic Social Work, the conviction of our increasing individual responsibility for our fellow men. And so do we who aim to serve them remembering humbly and prayerfully the words of our Holy Father Pius XII in his Christmas message of 1946—"We remind all those who glory in the name of Catholic Christians of a two fold sacred duty indispensable for the bettering of the condition of human society—the conscious fulfillment of the precept of justice and love."
