Train For Business

A very valuable contribution to the total educational picture of the diocese is that offered by the two commercial high schools in the city of Rochester.

St. Joseph's Commercial School conducted by the School Sisters of Notre Dame and St. Mary's School of Business conducted by the Sisters of Mercy offer a two-year program in preparation for business.

Courses offered include typewriting, stenography, bookkeeping, office practice, business English, filing and the use of office machines of all types.

Girl graduates of Rochester Catholic elementary schools find attendance at these two-year commercial high schools a very valuable preparation for entrance into the business world. At the present time there are enrolled at St. Joseph's Commercial School 203 girls and at St. Mary's School of Business, 47.

Both these schools are thoroughly Catholic in tone and atmosphere and feature a full program of religious activities.
