Kilmerites Hear Budenz Address

growing out of the roots, and the branches are its friends.

Budenz said he couldn't name the "branches" of Communism because "Stalin's iron curtain extends even into our own country" and that if he openly named names they would sue, in accordance with party policy, not to win, but to "keep the accuser in hot water," "to bleed him white" and so divert his energies as to make him ineffective.

He did say, however, that Communists have gained strength in radio as well as in Hollywood, that ten Hollywood writers have refused to take the oath of loyalty, and that many have appeared on the radio scene lately. From Hollywood, he charged, has come the money to finance the conquest of Hawaii by Harry Bridges.

He criticized American legal procedure which makes it impossible to call a man a Communist "unless you can prove he has a card."

Comparing the plight of America to that of France confronted with Hitler's hordes in 1939 he warned, "The hour is late. We may be in the position of France before Hitler — eaten within by immorality and political corruption."

"Are we writing the last chapter of the fall of the republic?" he queried. "Are we writing the opening stanza of the triumphant Soviet song rejoicing over the victory of dictatorship over democracy?"

Mr. Budenz blamed the "infiltration of public opinion for the "loss and betrayal" of Europe and now the East "with the consent" of the United States. "It may lead to the conquest of Western Germany," he said.

Predicting the impending fall of the Philippines, and then Hawaii, the ex-Communist drew attention to the fact that America's Pacific defenses are down, and that "our Western frontier is now our own West Coast."

He repeatedly stressed that America has been so degraded before the world that there is little confidence in the European countries of its ability to withstand Soviet aggression. "Russia is deliberately belittling us before the world to make the people of the conquered nations lose faith in the United States," he emphasized.

Citing the Berlin blockade which led to "operation airlift" and the shooting down of American planes, Mr. Budenz said that these situations were deliberately designed to make America appear "weak and silly" in the eyes of Europe. He also referred to the inconsistency of recognizing Tito's government and rejecting Franco's, a tactic which he called "part of our weakness."

He called for a "strong stand" against Russia in Berlin and at the conference table where "peace is used for war purposes," and where appeasement loses wars.

Recommending his new book "Men Without Faces" in which he exposes the Communist party as "an espionage recruiting and infiltration agency," Mr Budenz urged the necessity of its being generally distributed and carefully read. He also directed attention to several other current exposes, and to "that magnificent analysis of Communism" — the encyclical of Pope Pius XI.
