WHAT'S DOING AT THE DALY'S

Trouble and Peace of Mind Can Co-exist

By MARY TINLEY DALY

"Marriage and children bring a richness of living that surpasses any peace of mind."

The quotation appears out of a newspaper story. Who had suddenly discovered that? Millions of people, from Mr. and Mrs. Adam to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doakes could have made that statement but it never would have hit the newspapers.

It was made by Dr. Wayland F. Vaughan, a Boston University psychologist. And this, it seems, is only part of the Doctor's findings.

Aprons of the above, he believes that a man seeking the recently popularized peace of REAL peace of mind comes with accepting troubles, making the best of them and relying on God's infinite wisdom, power and mercy to take over when your human strength is exhausted.

You accept your role in life, do your best to live up to its responsibilities, you pray and act on the grace that prayer produces.

And you have true peace of mind.

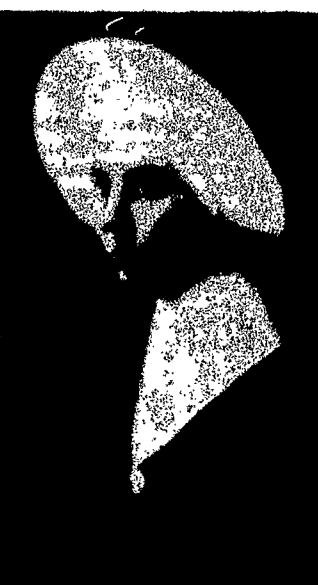

Book Cover Work of All Illinois Nuns

(Chicago, N.Y.) The story of the various Sisterhoods who work in the Province of Illinois is told in a new book, "Christ's Career Women in Illinois," which will be published by The New World.

Illustrated with pictures of Sisters in the habits of their orders, the book, in a concise and readable way gives a short history, the purpose and requirements of 112 communities. Ten give communities and the location of their motherhouses are listed in a special section.

Cream Ham Addition: Give creamed ham a new character. Add finely chopped green pepper, onion and gaspimento. Serve over corn bread squares.

'Woman of Achievement'

Miss Betty Jane Seidewand became the bride of Roy Raymond Heisel in a ceremony in Holy Family Church Oct. 21. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Seidewand of Jay St. Mr. Heisel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Heisel of Danforth St.

The Rev. Raymond G. Heisel, cousin of the bridegroom, relieved the vows.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. John Bucher, matron of honor, and the Misses Mary Louise Heisel, sister of the groom; Betty June Davis and Mary Ann O'Brien.

Edward J. Heisel was his brother's best man and ushers were John R. Bucher and Don aid F. York.

Furthermore as Our Blessed Lord referred to on so many occasions, our clergy are truly our shepherds and where they have an invigorating interest, the work of the Council has prospered.

"On the brighter side of the picture, throughout the Diocese the various deanery and district councils have sponsored Cane and pre-Cane Conferences, Days of Recollection, shrines and religious displays in public places, speakers bureaus, book and public relations teas, a lecture series, a workshop for leaders, library.

Among Women Organization Success

By MARY LENNON SNYDER

During the past week the Rochester Diocesan Council held its annual convention in our City. At that time as retiring president I submitted the following report which I should like to incorporate in this column because I have expressed here in many ideas I believe basic for organizational success.

The Holy Year has been for the Rochester Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women one of blessings not unmixd with disappointments. With the work of affilating so well done by our predecessors we had hoped during our term in office to see a greater consolidation of the organization throughout the diocese.

In some deaneries and districts this has been the case in others there has been a distinct feeling of stagnation.

"JUST as stagnation in a pond is caused by the lack of fresh running water, so stagnation in an organization is frequently brought about by the lack of new leaders and workers."

No matter how excellent the service has been in the past, a continuing in office of the same faces and ideas in the same organization seems to produce a somnolent effect upon the membership in general.

"While there are many recommendations which might be made at this time, I shall make just one—that each of us as an individual and as a member of our organization, follow the advice of Our Blessed Mother at Fatima Pray and do penance—that our work, done even in a small way, will further the cause of Catholic Action and that each of us in her chosen walk of life will help bring all things to Christ."

"In retiring from office I wish to do so with the most sincere expression of gratitude to all the moderators, officers and members of the Council who have given the present Diocesan officers such excellent support. I wish to thank in particular the members of the headed by Mrs. Mastrella, who Rochester Deanery Council, have prepared and worked diligently on the plans of this convention.

"ALL THESE activities have been duly reported in our Diocesan newspaper, The Catholic Courier, in The Counsellor, and in the secular press so that a detailed report here seems best omitted in the interest of efficiency. The reports of the other officers and chairmen of the standing committees supplementing this, will give a comprehensive picture of the year's work."
