Boy Football Stars Given Awards At Seneca Falls

Seneca Falls — Team letters and trophies were handed to several members of the St. Patrick's Panthers at the annual banquet held in St. Patrick's School Friday evening, Dec. 8.

As a highlight of the closing of the season, the boys and their parents gathered in the hall and were served a dinner under the supervision of Mrs. Thomas Bell and a committee of workers. The speaking program was under the direction of Paul S. Sisson. Mr. Sisson introduced Rev. Thomas C. Kane, assistant pastor, to whose untiring efforts and wholesome cooperation the Panthers came into existence.

Mr. Sisson expressed to Father Kane and the audience the gratitude of the boys and the parish for his work in forming the team and promoting a recreational program for the youth of the school.

FATHER KANE sidestepped the praise and passed the honors to the boys and the helpers who had made possible the success of the undertaking. These included Gino Giovanni and Louis Vergamini, coaches, the S.M.S. Society for its support, the K. of C. for the use of their athletic field, the various men and boys who helped to align up the field and keep it in condition, Miss Ida Mae Geb for her financial support, Miss Marie McGoldrich of The Revellie and Miss Marie Murphy of the Syra-use and Rochester papers for their publicity.

Holidays Keep Holy Family Students Busy

By FRANK KNAPP

Auburn — The Christmas spirit was in full swing at Holy Family High and the predominant pastime of many of the students seemed to have been "losing no time."

The first of many and varied activities was distribution of baskets of food to the needs of the parish. This project is always inaugurated by the Sodality of Our Lady and extended to the entire school.

Adding to the beauty of the office entrance is a newly purchased Nativity set, the background of which was painted in the form of a mural by Susanne Vollmar and Kathleen McEvoy.

THE SCHOOL PLAY, "Cheaper by the Dozen," played to a full house Monday night, Dec. 18. Led by Albert DeMonte as Father, the members of the cast gave fine performances as they portrayed the members of the Glibbreth family perfectly.

The big thing in every student's social life was the Senior Junior Prom, held Dec. 20. The mellow music of Hal Baker and Co. floated through the hall to enhance the array of crisp formal and sharply pressed tuxedos, as well as flaming corsages, chosen with great discretion and handled with infinite care lest they be crushed in the hurry that always precedes such affairs.
